ILL-FATED TRAVELER CASHED LARGE CHECK

CHICAGO, April 1.—(P)—Murray Miller, Chicago attorney, learned today that H. J. Christen, Chicago businessman, who died in the airplane wreck near Bazaar, Kas., yesterday, had cashed a check for $55,000 the day before he left here.

BY CHARLES A. GRUMICH.

COTTONWOOD FALLS, Kan., April 1.—(P)—The crash of the air transport plane which plunged to death Knute Rockne, of Notre Dame, and seven others remained a mystery of the skies tonight, after a coroner's jury reported the air liner fell from the clouds out of control.

What happened above the dense curtain of clouds to send the craft rocketing earthward with one wing torn off was unexplained by stockmen of the Flint hills who heard the drone of invisible motors, heard them falter and then saw the ship burst in sight from the muck, headed for its doom.

Aviation experts and officials of the Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., owners of the passenger and mail plane, supplemented the testimony of the eye-witnesses, but added nothing to solve the mystery.

A jury of six men wrote their verdict: "The deceased came to their deaths in an airplane fall. Cause undetermined."

Under Guard. The twisted debris which was a trimotor Fokker yesterday, was under guard at the scene of the crash, while authorities investigated the possibility of a large sum of money was in the wreckage.

H. J. Christen, of Chicago, one of the victims, was said by his attorney there to have withdrawn a large sum from a bank just before embarking. It was thought he might have carried the money on the plane.

Testimony indicated the air liner circled about through blinding clouds some minutes before the crash.

Robert Blackburn, who saw the transport nose from the cloudy sky and plunge to earth in a pasture 11 miles southwest of here, told of hearing the drone of motors above the clouds, of the sound passing over ear-

Betty Compton Given Divorce in Mexico

MEXICO CITY, April 1.—(P)—Judge Manuel Carpio, of the divorce court, announced today that Betty Compton, New York actress, had divorced Edward Duryea Dowling in Cuernavaca, Mexico, on March 21. The Dowlings were married in New York on February 16 and lived together only a short time.

The divorce was said to have been handled by mutual consent through lawyers authorized by each party.

The actress charged Dowling, who is a moving picture director, with cruelty, personal violence, and refusal to provide maintenance.

Miss Compton stayed in Cuernavaca for a day or two to establish residence.

MERGER PLAN HIT ATLANTA WEATHER BY FULTON BOARD STILL UNSETTLED

Hendrix Authorized To Obtain Facts and Figures Against Proposal.

The Fulton county commission Tuesday for the first time came out in open opposition to the proposed merger of Fulton and Campbell counties.

Walter C. Hendrix, chairman of the commission, was authorized to obtain facts and figures in opposition to the proposed merger. Mr. Hendrix said the merger election in Fulton county a great deal of money if put into effect, and probably would mean an increase in the tax rate.

The commission wants to tell the public what the merger will mean if ratified by Fulton county, Mr. Hendrix said. The merger election in Fulton county a great deal of money if put into effect, and probably would mean an increase in the tax rate.

The resolution making known the commission's opposition to the proposed merger was authorized by Commissioner Edward H. Inman, chairman of the finance committee, and received the unanimous approval of the board. Commissioner Paul S. Etheridge was absent.

The Inman resolution merely instructed Chairman Hendrix to address a communication to the voters of the county through the daily newspapers, making known the commission's views on the merger and citing fact and figures tending to show why it would not be beneficial to Fulton county.

It was said that it would take several days for Mr. Hendrix to prepare the statement.

In the commission's summing up of

Mrs. Rockne, Grief-Stricken, Asks That 'His Boys' Be There

BY RALPH MCGILL.
One last hurdle with "The Rock" is ahead for Notre Dame football players.

Mrs. Knute Rockne, stricken with grief since the tragic death of her husband in an airplane crash Tuesday, paused in Atlanta Wednesday night en route to South Bend, where lies the body of the dead Viking.

Jack Cannon, famous All-American guard of the unbeaten 1929 Notre Dame eleven, went into the drawing room of the Pullman.

"Jack," said Mrs. Rockne, "I want you to get word to all the boys who played for him that I want all of them to be here Saturday."

I want them to sit down front in the chapel as close to him as they can. He wanted that and I want it."

The boys of Rockne hardly needed the call, the last one from "The Rock." Many of them were already on the way back to South Bend. Others are leaving today for the last trip back to South Bend with Rockne, that rare coach and friend.

Train from Miami Late. The train from Miami where Mrs. Rockne was when the accident occurred, was late arriving in Atlanta. Cannon, now assistant coach at Georgia Tech; Head Coach W. A. Alexander, and the writer, met the train. Cannon was first to enter the drawing room where Mrs. Rockne was lying down. She wrung his hand and smiled through her tears. There was a catch in her voice but she spoke bravely.

"Jack," she said, "I want to see all his friends, especially all his boys who played for him. When he was ill and suffering pain he always told me to send up any of his boys who called."

GUY DOBBS DENIES BRIBERY CHARGES; SEEKS ACQUITTAL

Ex-Alderman Admits Taking Money From Salesman But "Thought Gifts Legitimate."

Former Alderman W. Guy Dobbs, appearing as the sole witness in his own defense, took the stand Wednesday at his bribery trial before a jury in Judge John D. Humphries' division of the Fulton superior court to make a categorical denial of the nine charges against him and to make a plea for his acquittal.

The former alderman appeared after the state had paraded before the jury three prosecuting witnesses, all of whom testified to making "gifts" to the ex-official and one-time chairman of the councilmanic board of firemasters, following his appearance with witnesses whose testimony was offered to rebut his denials. All of the testimony had been presented when court recessed for the night.

The closing arguments are to be made this morning and the case given to the jury shortly after noon. Paul S. Etheridge will open for the defense, to be followed by Assistant Solicitor J. Walter LeCraw and Solicitor-General John A. Boykin, with Judge Will Gunn, of Macon, making the closing plea in behalf of Dobbs.

There are nine counts in the indictment for which Dobbs is on trial. The first charges that he "accepted a gift" from Lawrence Manning, a salesman, who testified he sought the then alderman's good will in connection with the purchase of two giant street sweepers by the city. The next seven involve alleged payments to the former alderman by J. O. Hebert, southeastern representative of the American La France Company and the Eureka Fire Hose Company. Hebert testified that at various times he gave Dobbs sums ranging from $50 to $500 for expenses on trips to various conventions and one trip to New York and Atlanta, N. Y., for Dobbs' inspection of the American La France Company's plant, and on one occasion indorsed a note for him to assist Dobbs in financing his home. The ninth count involves the alleged payment of $400 to Dobbs by Burgess West, the former alderman testifying that he gave this money to a newspaperman, now dead.

Thought "Gifts" Legitimate. "All of the trips I made on money furnished by Mr. Hebert I thought legitimate because of my position as alderman and because of the world of firemasters and because of Mr. Hebert's connection with the fire engine

LICENSE GRANTED FOR POLICE RADIO

U. S. Commission's Action To Permit System's Operation Within Month.

A license for Atlanta's police radio station has been granted by the federal radio commission and actual operation of the radio system will begin within 30 days, it was announced Wednesday.

The radio commission's action in granting the permit was carried in an issue of the United States Daily. The station will be assigned to a frequency of 2450 kilocycles. It will have a power of 150 watts. The permit is expected to arrive here in a few days.

G. Richard Shatto, radio specialist of the Graybar Electric Company, said that the equipment probably would arrive within a week, and the station be ready for service within a month.

The transmitter will be capable of a power of 400 watts, but the application specified a maximum power of 150 watts of the license, it was said. If more power than 150 watts is found to be necessary, application can be made to the local radio supervisor and the matter will be taken up with the commission, it was said.

American Author Samples Diet Of African Cannibal Tribe

(Editor's Note.—William B. Seabrook, about whom the following article is written, is well known in Atlanta, where he and Mrs. Seabrook lived for many years. He was prominent in the local advertising field following his connection with an Atlanta newspaper.)

NEW YORK, April 1.—(P)—William B. Seabrook, American author, has sampled the diet of Africa's cannibal tribe, following his connection with an Atlanta newspaper.

Back in a Fifth Avenue attic apartment, after six months among the Guere cannibal tribe on the west African ivory coast, Seabrook was found on eve of the publication of his book, "Jungle Ways."

In that volume he describes the tasting of human flesh. It was a sort of scientific adventure, he relates. "Much," he said, "has been written about cannibals. They have been pictured in movies. But everybody has stopped at the dinner table. Nobody has written about the peculiar custom that makes them cannibals."

Seabrook is 45 years old and son of a Lutheran minister of Westminster, Md. He was written about the Arabians and the Haitians in other books based on friendly, intimate life among the natives.

On his African adventure he was accompanied by his wife, Katie Seabrook, who was born in the mountains of North Carolina. She has

Rockne and Danforth Discuss Autobiography

Not long before his tragic death, Knute Rockne, the greatest football coach of all time, wrote a series of recollections of his life on the gridiron. When he was here early in March on a business trip, Ed Danforth (left in photograph above), sports editor of The Constitution, interviewed Coach Rockne and discussed this series of articles. The series begins today with a dashing chapter written by Rockne in his own brilliant style, telling of his first contact with a great football player. Other installments will appear daily in The Constitution's sports section.

Knute Rockne Tells Story of Life In Vivid Saga of Eventful Career

In this series of 18 articles the great Notre Dame football coach, whose untimely death in an airplane accident Tuesday shocked the entire nation, tells of the adventures and people he met in his eventful career from Voss, in Norway, to the middle western university which he helped to make famous. It is an exciting story—the saga of Knute Rockne. It was finished but a short time before his death. It is his own life story and will appear exclusively in The Constitution each day for 18 days until the series is completed. There will be much written about Rockne. This is Rockne's own story, written by Rockne.

BY KNUTE ROCKNE. INSTALLMENT I.

THE first time I learned a football was not only something to kick, but something to think with, was when I saw a great football player in action for the first time. When the eastern high school champions of 30 years ago challenged the western champions, the meeting of the two teams in Chicago was a great event.

Brooklyn Poly Prep was the eastern outfit and Hyde Park High in Chicago the western. Crashing the gate—a habit of mine as a youngster—I sat spellbound through the game. It was one-sided; the final score was 105 to 0 in favor of the Chicago team. But the clearest picture remaining from that slaughter was not the overpowering might of the western lads, who had among them the famous Hammond brothers, later Michigan stars.

The striking feature was the brilliant, heady play of Hyde Park's quarterback—a lad named Walter Eckersall. He played prairie football, mainly wide sweeps around ends; but by instinctive timing he hit the heavier Brooklyn linemen until they were dizzy. With no more than four fundamental plays he worked so quickly and coolly that he made his offense bewildering.

Eckersall's sharp, staccato calling of signals; his keen, handsome face, and the smooth precision with which he drove and countered and drove again, handling his players with the rhythm of an orchestra leader—all this gave football a new meaning to me.

After the game was over and the western boys went cheering from the field, shouting the name Eckersall like a slogan over the defeated easterners, I tried to get close to the hero of the day. Two or three thousand other youngsters were trying to do the same thing, so I had to go home without a handshake—yet, for the first time in a young and fairly crowded life, I went home with a hero. Dreams of how, some day, I might shine as Eckersall had shone that afternoon were my lonesome luxury. For years they were nothing but dreams.

Eckersall went on to greater glory as the sensational star of the University of Chicago. My path took me from high school to nothing more athletic than being a mail dispatcher working nights, for years.

But there came an afternoon when the Notre Dame squad ran onto a Chicago field with the former sandlot boy, ex-mail dispatcher, as captain.

University Hospital Board Head Resigns

AUGUSTA, Ga., April 1.—(P)—E. H. Callaway, chairman of the board of trustees of the University of Georgia, today said he had received the resignation of Dr. W. H. Goodrich, dean of the medical department of the university.

The resignation, Mr. Callaway said, was effective June 30, but that no reason was given for the letter he received from Dr. Goodrich.

Mr. Callaway would make no statement other than to say the resignation would be submitted at the regular meeting of the board in June. Dr. Goodrich has been dean of the medical department since the death nine years ago of Dr. W. H. Doughty.

Ethel Roosevelt Derby Here, Expresses Faith in Youth

BY JULIA COLLIER HARRIS.
(alias Joel Chandler Harris) to her distinguished father, and thus Atlanta has the honor of receiving the granddaughter of Martha Bullock, a native Georgian. In other words, Mrs. Ethel Roosevelt Derby, with her own little girl and her husband, Dr. Richard Derby, is at present staying with her old-time friends, General Frank McCoy and Mrs. McCoy at Fort McPherson.

When asked by the writer for an interview, Mrs. Derby at first demurred: "I don't, as a rule, give interviews. My brothers and my aunt, Mrs. Corinne Roosevelt Robinson, are so much more adept at interviews than I," said this modest, unaffected and thoroughly approachable woman. But on second thought, Mrs. Derby decided that she really wanted to express her cordial feeling for her grandmother's people and for the home city of "Uncle Remus," whom her parents regarded as a dear friend, by giving a personal message to Atlantans through the newspaper in which "Uncle Remus" published his first animal stories—stories which were read to the Roosevelt children and which the present generation of little Roosevelts and Derbys know as well as Atlanta children do.

"I do want Georgians to know how strongly my brothers and I are drawn to this state, not only because of the sweetest-looking young gal" is at last returning the visit made so long ago by Billy Sanders

Vanguard of Forces of Mercy Arrive To Find Bulk of Populace Still Dazed by Tragedy.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(P)—The navy late tonight received a message that "additional severe" earthquake shocks were felt in Managua, Nicaragua, at 8:10 p. m. E. S. T.

The message was received, the navy said, from the naval area commander at Balboa. It said simply that information coming from Managua told of the new shocks. No information as to the effect was contained in the message.

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.

Relief has begun to reach the city of Managua, laid waste by fire and earthquake.

Airplanes carrying doctors, medical supplies and as much food as they could carry from San Salvador and other expeditions have arrived.

Fire in the ruins has been brought under control and the people are turning to the work of reconstruction.

Recurrent tremors were felt as the earth settled, but none was of major proportions.

Estimating the number of casualties was a matter of guess work, but the number of dead was placed at 1,000 and the injured 2,000.

Four of the dead were Americans.

BURN BODIES OF DEAD. RADIO MESSAGE SAYS

MIAMI, Fla., April 1.—(P)—Bodies of the dead in quake-stricken Managua were being burned today, E. I. Duntan, operating manager of Pan-American Airways, Inc., was informed here tonight in a radio message from members of an airplane crew at Managua.

The information, contained in a log carrying a vivid report of activities during the day, said the city was to be evacuated in the afternoon.

Mr. Duntan said the message was from the crew of a plane sent by the Salvadorean government with doctors, money and water to Managua, and was the first to arrive.

It said in part: "Have been through city; destruction beyond description. Six hundred known dead."

Key Names Arthur I. Harris As Member of Grady Board

Prominent Businessman
To Succeed Louis J. El-
sas; Miss Ruth Sheafe
Appointed Director of Admissions.

Arthur I. Harris, president of the Atlanta Paper Company, Wednesday was named by Mayor James L. Key as a member of the board of trustees of Grady hospital to succeed the late Louis J. Elsas. At the same time it was announced that Miss Ruth Sheafe, well-known welfare worker, has been named director of admissions.

With the resignation of Asmon Lewis as assistant superintendent of the hospital taking effect Wednesday, it was stated that this post would be abolished, as the duties of the director of admissions, a new office, will include some of the functions of the assistant's office.

Designation of Mr. Harris must be confirmed by council, where the appointment will be transmitted by the mayor Monday. The selection of the paper executive is for the remainder of a three-year term which began in January of this year. Mr. Harris has been a citizen of Atlanta for approximately 20 years, is well known in the business life of Atlanta as well as in social service of various fields.

The new department headed by Miss Sheafe, who immediately upon her appointment assumed her duties, will examine all applicants for admission. Miss Sheafe formerly was associated with the Grady clinic. Later she was engaged in activities of the Family Welfare Society and the American Red Cross, and more recently served on the emergency relief committee of the Better Business Commission.

In making public the appointment of Mr. Harris as a trustee, Mayor Key said he is confident it is in keeping with the personnel already on the board, which consists of five citizens appointed by the mayor, the chairman of the hospitals and charities committee of council, and the mayor himself.

EX-NEW YORK BANKER ARRESTED, RELEASED

Nathaniel J. Finch, former assistant note taker of the Liberty National Bank & Trust Company, of New York city, Wednesday was in the custody of the United States marshal here for a short time because of delayed instructions from the district attorney's office in the southern district of New York.

Finch was brought before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith Wednesday morning. Judge Griffith set a $10,000 bond for Finch's appearance in New York to answer an indictment containing three counts of alleged willful misapplication of money, funds and credits of the federal reserve bank.

Good news for Finch arrived soon after the bond was set. The New York federal district attorney's office wired the marshal here that Finch and another defendant had already posted their appearance bonds in New York, prior to the arrest here, and that he was to be released. The instructions were followed.

"I had to stay IN BED 4 MONTHS" Sargon Brings Health

Sargon brought me health and strength at a time I thought nothing would help me. For three years I'd suffered with rheumatic pains in my arms and legs, and finally I had to take to my bed and stay there for four long months. My stomach also gave me lots of trouble, and I couldn't eat without having indigestion. Constipation was the bane of my life—I didn't have a natural bowel movement in over two years, and was always dosing myself with purgatives.

"Sargon ended every sign of rheumatic pain. I'm actually taking long walks every day! I have a fine appetite and never suffer with indigestion. Sargon Pills entirely overcame my constipation. They are the most thorough laxative I ever used, yet they do not upset the system in the least."—Mrs. Sarah Hamby, 2004 32nd Ave., N., Birmingham.

Weekly's Publishers Buy
Detroit Tabloid as Part of Deal.

NEW YORK, April 1.—(AP)—Sale of Liberty Magazine to the Bernard MacFadden publishing interests, was announced today.

Counsel for the principals did not state what financial consideration entered into the transaction, but announced the publishers of Liberty bought from the MacFadden interests the Detroit Daily, a tabloid newspaper. Both sales became effective today.

The statement said: "The publishers of Liberty have sold that weekly to MacFadden Publications, Inc. MacFadden Publications, Inc., have sold the Detroit Daily, a tabloid newspaper, to Mr. DeWitt's client."

McDonald DeWitt, who represented the publishers of Liberty, stated the new owner of the Detroit Daily intends to publish the newspaper along the lines of the News, New York. Joseph Schultz, who represented the MacFadden interests, said his client will continue the identical editorial policies of Liberty.

Georgia Tech's Annual Adjuded Best in Country

Adjuded the most nearly perfect college annual in America, The Blue Print, of Georgia Tech, has won the 1930 silver trophy award of the National Scholastic Press Association, it was revealed Wednesday.

Rated a scoring of 900 out of a possible 1,000 points for perfection, the Tech yearbook was selected ahead of entries submitted by every large university and college in the United States. Notre Dame was given second place, while Stanford University was third. Judging was an artistic fashioning of the annual, which was printed and bound by Foote & Davies Company, of Atlanta, and the art work, which was almost entirely the efforts of Tech craftsmen. Photo-engraving work was done by the Southwestern Engraving Company, of Atlanta.

For one year the huge and magnificent silver-and-jade trophy, emblematic of Tech's excellent in this field, will be on exhibit at the administration building; and it bears the inscription showing how, for the first time in the history of the award, a southern institution has been adjudged the winner.

The cup is one of the largest and most beautiful trophies ever placed on exhibition at Georgia Tech.

Editorial officers of the 1930 Blue Print was composed of Frederick Roberts, editor-in-chief; S. G. Goodwyn, art editor; J. P. Napier, assistant editor; R. T. Bowen, senior editor; N. H. Lassiter, fraternity editor; F. S. Stephenson, photograph editor; C. P. Bowen, junior editor; M. J. Greene, military editor; F. L. Sucha, sports editor; Todd Lunsford, campus editor; A. H. ### GANG ASSIGNMENT AWAITED BY WHITE

Jack White, former broker and onetime business associate of Harry York, ex-councilman, now serving a chain-gang sentence for bribery, remained at the Fulton tower Wednesday night awaiting assignment to one of the county convict camps by Captain A. A. Clarke, head of the department of public works.

White is to serve three years on bribery charges. The first conviction against him was upheld by the court of appeals Tuesday. He actually began serving his time on that day when he withdrew the supercedas staying execution of a sentence received last week.

Captain Clarke said Wednesday that he had not decided which camp would get White, adding that he would be taken from the tower with the next consignment of prisoners and go where the remainder were sent. White was allowed to leave the jail under guard Wednesday for several hours to wind up his personal business.

Preston, former junior and intermediate leader of Georgia, will be among the speakers.

WARD MOREHOUSE IN PLANE CRASH

SANTIAGO, Chile, April 1.—(AP)—An airplane carrying Ward Morehouse and Leo Kieran, New York newspapermen, from here to Antofagasta, crashed today in a bad landing at Ovalle, in the province of Coquimbo. A delayed telegram received at the Pan-American Grace Airways here said "no serious injuries."

FULTON BANK OPENS BRANCH IN DECATUR

Enthusiasm Displayed by Citizens and Former Customers of Failed Institution.

With Clyde Walker as manager and W. F. Talley as assistant manager, the Decatur branch of the Fulton National bank was opened in that suburb Wednesday morning, to supplant the former Decatur Bank and Trust Company, which closed its doors several months ago.

Heralded by an exhibition of enthusiasm on the part of Decatur citizens, and amid a profusion of floral offerings, the opening of the new branch of the Fulton was attended by a manifestation of confidence on the part of virtually all depositors having funds in the old Decatur bank, who signified their intention of allowing their money to remain in the new branch.

Officials of the parent bank were present at the opening of the new branch, and it was explained to depositors assembled that funds were readily available to liquidate all demands for withdrawals. To pay out funds for those who desired to withdraw, a total of $206,000 was on hand, representing the acquisition by the Fulton National of certain assets of the closed Decatur institution. It was emphasized, however, that inasmuch as the entire resources of the parent organization were behind the new Decatur branch, depositors were at liberty to leave their money in the new establishment.

FLORIDA-OWNED LAND MUST SELL FOR $10

TALLAHASSEE, Fla., April 1.—(AP)—If state-owned land in Florida isn't worth at least $10 an acre it isn't worth selling at all, officials agreed here today.

Following this decision members of the board of trustees of the internal improvement fund and members of the state board of education voted adoption of a policy of not selling state lands for less than $10 an acre. It also was voted to consolidate all records having to do with land, minerals and leases in the office of the land bureau of the department of agriculture.

Where Knute Rockne and Seven Fellow Travelers Met Death

Top photo shows the mass of wreckage that was left of the airplane in which Knute Rockne, famous football coach of Notre Dame University and seven others met death Tuesday over Bazaar, Kan. Three torn bodies were extricated from the mass of steel, while the other five were thrown clear of the plane. No one lived to tell what caused the crash. Lower photo shows a wing of the liner which, eye-witnesses said, drifted away from the plane as it appeared through the heavy clouds and fog. The wing drifted down to a hilltop three-eighths of a mile away. H. G. Edgerton, district passenger agent of the air line, expressed the opinion that ice forming on the wing may have caused it to snap off. Associated Press photos.

Textile Institute's Effort To Bar Night Work for Women Denounced

Severely denouncing the recent efforts of the Textile Institute to abolish night work in cotton mills for women as a ruse to force her sex gradually out of employment in the industry, Miss Josephine Casey, representative of the national woman's party, has arrived in Atlanta to endeavor to arouse public sentiment against such a movement. Asserting that she came to Georgia to "explain the danger to woman's status in the resolution recently passed by the Textile Institute," Miss

MITCHELL SCORES GOVERNMENT COST

Eugene Mitchell, well known Atlanta attorney, in an address before the Atlanta Real Estate Board Wednesday, assailed the cost of present city and county governments and asserted that a readjustment is sure to come as soon as the people become "tax conscious."

Mr. Mitchell's address was on the general subject of the history of Atlanta real estate in past depressions and he pointed out that he had lived to see many of the great fortunes of Atlanta today based on the purchases of real estate in the former panic periods of 1873 and 1893.

"Likewise," continued Mr. Mitchell, "many of us will live to see the fruits of just as great a development in the future as a result of wise and courageous purchases during the present time of depression."

He hopes within the next month to organize a local council of the woman's party as well as to educate the girls and women of this section in a campaign against the night work ban of the Textile Institute.

LOCAL GARDEN CLUBS TO AID EMPLOYMENT

Presidents of Various Groups Will Discuss Situation at Friday Meeting.

Ways and means of assisting in the efforts of the better business commission to decrease unemployment will be considered at a meeting of garden club presidents at 3:30 o'clock Friday afternoon at the Piedmont Driving Club. The meeting Friday was called following adoption of a resolution at a meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Tuesday under auspices of a committee headed by Mrs. R. L. Cooney. Members of the committee include Mrs. Preston S. Arkwright, Mrs. Phinixy Calhoun, Mrs. Sam Inman and Mrs. Arthur Tuffis. The resolution promised support of the better business commission and pledged interest of the Outdoor Civic League, the garden clubs and other civic organizations for the planting of gardens, cultivating of vacant lots and adoption of other methods that may furnish employment for the benefit of the city.

STATE INCOME TAX BRINGS IN $515,128.91

State income tax payments during March totaled $515,128.91, R. C. Norman, state tax commissioner, announced Wednesday. The tax is payable in three installments, but many small taxpayers have paid in full. In addition to installments that will be payable in June and September, a number of extensions have been granted and many corporations file on a fiscal instead of a calendar year basis, Mr. Norman said.

With the consent of the Georgia Power Company Mr. Norman made public that corporation's payment on March 23 of $58,533.33, representing a third of the income tax payable by the company for 1930. The company confined its return to its Georgia corporations, instead of including all affiliated corporations included in the Commonwealth Southern, as it could do under the old Boykin act.

FUND OF $750,000 LOST TO SCHOOLS

Payment of the Barrett-Rogers fund to consolidate schools, $750,000 being due for 1928 and 1929, will not be forthcoming from the state in spite of a resolution of the recent extra session of the legislature instructing Governor Hardman to draw warrants and direct their payment "from the first funds in the treasury and not otherwise especially allocated by law," it was revealed Wednesday.

M. L. Duggan, state superintendent of schools, said that Governor Hardman so informed the state board of education at its meeting Tuesday. Governor Hardman told the board that he was informed by legislators that the intent of the legislature was that the payments were to be made from the first money received from sale of the Western & Atlantic railroad rentals, and that the rentals sale bill had been vetoed, Duggan said.

26 LAGRANGE COLLEGE GIRLS TO VISIT GARDENS

Twenty-six members of the senior class of LaGrange College will pass through Atlanta Friday on the college's annual senior trip, en route to Nashville, Tenn., at Charleston, S. C., it was announced Wednesday. The party will arrive at the Terminal station at 7 o'clock via the A. & W. P. railroad, and leave for the Georgia railroad at 7:25 o'clock via the Georgia railroad. They will return through Atlanta April 7.

Those taking the trip will be Miss Mildred Singer, sponsor of class, New Orleans, La.; Miss Sara Clyde Hutchins, president, Covington; Miss Dorothy Neal, vice president, West Point; Miss Martha Jane Estes, secretary and treasurer, Senoia; Miss Virginia Emory, treasurer, senior trip fund, LaGrange; Miss Aurelia Adams, Danville; Miss Mary Walker, Atlanta; Miss Margaret Thompson, Bolton; Miss Mary Branton, East Point; Miss Katie McLaughlin, Senoia; Miss Lilla Sutton, Ocala; Miss Catherine Chastain, Manchester; Miss Evelyn Copeland, Norcross; Misses George Davis, Carolyn Hairston, Mary Lovejoy, Neva Caudle, Mary Grimes, Inez Bartley, Edith Traylor, Chrysal Carley and Mrs. Elmina Caldwell Wade, LaGrange; Miss Robbie Hadley, Chipley; Miss Grace Landrum, Waleska; Miss Mildred Blackmon, Greenville; Miss Sara Ware, Hogsenville.

ATLANTA MASONS HEAR FIRE CHIEF

Announcement of an "April Fool's Day" program for the Wednesday meeting of the Atlanta Masonic Club turned out to be just another "April fool stunt" when practically the entire time allotted for the program was given over to Fire Chief John Terrell for a serious talk on the fire situation in Atlanta.

Chief Terrell discussed the fire department's plans for the future, touching on the department's expansion program and its training school for firemen. A large portion of his address was devoted to the part citizens can play in aiding the firemen in their work. Elimination of fire hazards and prevention of fires due to carelessness afford a big and vitally important field for citizen co-operation, the chief pointed out. One phase of the department's future program will deal with an educational program of this means of fire prevention, Chief Terrell said.

NEGRO SENTENCED TO ELECTRIC CHAIR

Johnny B. Martin, a negro, Wednesday was found guilty of first degree murder in connection with the fatal shooting several months ago of Emma Alexander, another negro. The jury failed to recommend mercy and the verdict automatically carries with it the death penalty. Judge Edgar E. Pomeroy, before whom the case was tried, will fix Martin's execution date this morning.

When You
INDULGE

EVERY man, woman and child will occasionally over-indulge. But don't suffer for your indiscretions. It's folly to do so when you can so easily sweeten and settle a sour, upset stomach with a little Phillips' Milk of Magnesia.

Hearty eaters have long since learned the quick comfort this perfect anti-acid brings. Smokers know how it neutralizes nicotine; brings back a sweet taste; guards the breath. Women know what it does for nausea—or sick headache. And when children have over-eaten—are bilious, constipated or otherwise upset—give them a little of the same, pleasant-tasting and milky-white Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. You'll be through with crude methods once you learn the perfect way. Nothing else has the same quick, gentle effect. Doctors prescribe it for sour stomach, indigestion, heartburn, gas, nausea, headache. It has been standard with them for over 50 years.

Insist on genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia: a less perfect product may not act the same. The genuine is always a liquid—never in tablet form—and the name Phillips is always on bottle and wrapper.

TWO NEW MOTOR ACTS STUDIED BY J. A. PERRY

Printed Copies of Regulatory Measures Will Be Distributed to Carriers.

Preparations for enforcement of the two new acts regulating motor carriers for hire were begun Wednesday by the state public service commission. The acts are being studied by the commission, James A. Perry, chairman, said.

Printed copies of the two acts have been received by the commission and will be distributed to the carriers. A third motor carrier act, providing for an excise tax, will not go into effect for 30 days. The tax act is to be enforced by the controller general and not by the public service commission. Inspectors of the commission are being instructed on provisions of the new regulatory bills, which are said to represent little change from the existing act.

One of the new acts gives the commission power to require motor carriers to locate, erect, use or lease depots, and contains provisions for various regulations, fixing of schedules and rates, and other powers. The other act fixes the load, height, width and speed of the motor vehicles operated as carriers for hire.

FEAST OF PASSOVER OBSERVED BY JEWS

Jewish residents of Atlanta joined with Jews throughout the world in observing the Feast of the Passover, beginning at sunset Wednesday, with prayer in synagogues and solemn rituals in temple and home. The event will continue for seven days, though only the first two days are observed as holy days.

Eating of unleavened bread and other Jewish rituals were included as part of the services commemorating the exodus of the Israelites from Egyptian bondage. Rabbi Harry H. Epstein led services in the Ahavath Achim synagogue Wednesday evening and will conduct morning rituals this morning, while Rabbi Tobias A. Gelfen will conduct exercises at the Shearith Israel temple at the same hours. At the Hebrew Benevolent temple rites were under the offices of Rabbi David Marx Wednesday night. They will be repeated this morning.

BOWLING ALLEY TAX CUT RECOMMENDED

Reduction of taxes on bowling alley operators will be recommended Monday by the finance committee of council, under a decision Wednesday afternoon of the tax committee. In addition the committee ruled that auction houses which make private sales are liable for an auction license and a license for the merchandise they sell to private buyers.

New rates for bowling alleys will be $25 for each of the first five alleys and $10 each for every additional one, if committee recommendations are adopted. At the present time operators are required to pay $60 for each alley.

GET RELIEF FROM YOUR RHEUMATISM

Don't groan and complain if rheumatic aches and pains are making you miserable. Thousands have found relief by taking Prescription C-2223, originated by a well-known physician who used it for years in his private practice. This remarkable prescription attacks rheumatism at the source by neutralizing toxic acids in the joints and driving out poisonous waste matter, which medical opinion says are two chief causes of rheumatic troubles. All prescription drug stores have on hand generous size bottles of C-2223 and sell it on an absolute money-back guarantee.

Collection of Works by Georgia Artists, on Exhibit at High Museum, Striking and Comprehensive Display of Varied Talents of Local Group

BY B. R. CRISLER.

The task of properly evaluating a collection of works by Georgia artists—such a collection, at any rate, as the one now on exhibit in the High Museum of Art—is by no means so simple or so much of a picnic as one might, off-handedly, imagine. The fact is that a really comprehensive appraisal, made with a due sense of the various kinds and degrees of merit involved, would demand the exercise of precisely those two faculties which a reviewer for a morning newspaper is never allowed to cultivate: that is to say, leisure and deliberation.

It will be clear to everyone, upon first entering the room which has been devoted to the Georgia collection, that some of these native artists have looked at the right paintings in the galleries they have visited, and that is of infinitely more importance than they have not kept their eyes shut, meanwhile, to the world about them.

In some cases, naturally, one will be called upon to make allowances for the youth of the painter; an all-but brilliant turn for improvisation may follow after the first heat of composition has died down—into that enormous fatigue which is the first desert that a genuinely gifted painter must traverse if he is to arrive at "art." But it is only for one among thousands after all that the word "art" becomes something more substantial than a bright mirage, and its introduction, in the case of most of these young painters, is, to say the least, premature.

For the great point is that their works, as a whole, are surprisingly free from that obvious type of badness which "leaps to the eye" and offends the taste precisely because it is such hopeless, precisely because it is such hopeless, incurable badness; a badness unrelieved, one might say, by even the most accidental strain of merit.

A painter with a very exact and a very pleasing awareness of steamers and their rakish beauty is Christopher Murphy, Jr., whose canvas, "Ships in Dry Dock," is reproduced above. But quite as exact and pleasing is his awareness of roses which gives a crisply decorative effect to his watercolor of that name, and a commendably courageous attitude towards line is evidenced in his etching entitled, "Ships."

Georgia artists and some of the paintings now on exhibit in the All-Georgia collection at the High Museum of Art. At left, above, Miss Cornelia Cunningham, and her pastel, "Girl in Pink;" at right, Mrs. E. Paxton Oliver with her oil painting, "A Stairway of Our Fathers, Cordes, France," and, at bottom, "Ships in Dry Dock," by Christopher Murphy, Jr., one of the most finished oils in the collection.

WASHINGTON, April 1.—(AP)—The veterans' bureau has issued through March 28 checks aggregating $278,081,530 on applications for loans by World War veterans. The bureau has sent out 744,637 checks and has received applications for loans on adjusted service certificates from 1,661,628 veterans.

Prices Here Vary Under Increased Tax on Cigarets

With the exception of the Fort McPherson canteen and the Veterans' hospital supply store, cigar stores of Atlanta Wednesday hoisted the price of "fags" in accordance with the increased state tax. Prices ranging from 16 to 18 cents a package were being charged at the retail counters, depending on whether or not the storekeeper absorbed part of the tax as an attraction to customers.

The Fort McPherson canteen is exempt from the state cigar and cigarette taxes, but sells only to soldiers. Likewise the Veterans' hospital, being a government reservation, is exempt from the tax, but sells to patients and employees alone.

One provision of the new tax act passed at the extra session of the legislature, levying a 10 per cent tax on cigars and 20 per cent on cigarettes, exempts interstate commerce shipments, as well as cigars and cigarettes sold to the United States government, or any department or agency thereof, including post exchanges.

At Fort McPherson's canteen, it was said that no rush is expected on the tax free cigarettes, as the store sells only to soldiers, and even the soldiers are limited as to quantity. Purchase of a carton occasionally is all right, but when a customer begins purchasing in such quantities that it appears he is retailing them himself, a stop is put to it.

Judge To Resign

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., April 1.—(AP)—Judge A. G. Hartridge, of the Palm Beach county criminal court of record, today announced he would resign May 1 to enter private law practice with his son, Dillon Hartridge, at Jacksonville. He formerly was a Duval county public official.

BEATEN BY ROBBERS, LIBRARY KEEPER DIES

CHICAGO, April 1.—(AP)—Beaten by robbers and left lying in the street, Frank B. Gorman, in charge of the reference room of the Congressional Library in Washington, died in a hospital here today.

He was found Monday night lying unconscious in a street, his head had been battered and his shoulder broken.

Police who picked him up, believed him to be drunk, and failed to give him medical attention for 45 minutes. He revived long enough to say he had been robbed and then fell in a faint. Internal hemorrhages caused his death today.

FIVE SUSPECTS HELD IN TENNESSEE DEATH

SEVIERVILLE, Tenn., April 1.—(AP)—Five men were held in Sevier county jail today as suspects in connection with the death of G. O. Clabough, 60-year-old farmer, who was found shot to death in the barn lot of his home near here yesterday.

Sheriff F. M. Robertson gave their names as Druel Rawlings, Paul Rawlings, Aaron Kirby, Joe Clabough and Roy Trentham. He said a sixth man is being sought.

FIVE "DOPE" SUSPECTS UNDER HEAVY BONDS

Heavy bonds were set for five narcotics defendants Wednesday when they were brought before United States Commissioner E. S. Griffith following Saturday's arrests for alleged possession and sale of morphine. Tommie Trollinger was assessed $2,000 bail, and Dorothy Cooper, Harry Henderson, Florence Cooper and Jimmie Gilliam were held for bonds of $1,000 each. A sixth defendant, Mrs. Corrine Cox, charged with possession of morphine, was required to post a $500 bond.

Nick Cullop Here, Predicts Great Season for Cracker Club

KNUTE ROCKNE'S OWN STORY BEGINS TODAY

Here's Real Baseball Enthusiasm as LaGrange Sandlotters Learn Game Under Kid Elberfeld

Norman (Kid) Elberfeld, former major league star and manager in the Southern league, is working for the American Legion, teaching baseball to school boys. This week finds him at LaGrange, Ga., where the active Legion post is seeing to it that the boys of Troup county get all the baseball instruction that Elberfeld can give. The program is a statewide one and most of the posts are having the Kid in for a week of instruction. The Legion, with the co-operation of the major leagues, puts on a national tournament every year in which Legion-sponsored teams play for the junior world's championship. Georgia teams have always done well in the play. In the pictures above Elberfeld is shown at the left

Nick Cullop Predicts Big Year for Crackers

Former Atlanta Slugger Loses His Jinx; Radcliffe Deal Off; Orioles Here Today.

By Ralph McGill.

Nick Cullop, the big blond bear, and one-time home run hero of the Crackers, spent Wednesday in Atlanta when the Cincinnati Reds, Nick's 1931 club, were rained out in Macon, where Brooklyn was scheduled to be played.

Cullop thinks the Crackers will be right in the thick of what the boys call the old fray. He has a great boost for Johnny Ryan, the shortstop recently acquired from the White Sox, and for Johnny Morrison, the pitcher, both of whom Cullop has seen in action.

"The Crackers seem to have a good ball club," he said as he leaned nonchalantly against the cigar stand at the Piedmont hotel. "I don't see why Johnny Dobbs can't have them up there all the way if he has any luck at all."

"I saw Johnny Ryan play short in the American Association last year. He is a real ball player. He can hit and he is a real pitcher. He should burn this one up."

MORRISON'S GUY. "Johnny Morrison still has that curve ball, they tell me, and if he gets in shape and stays there he will be a real pitcher in any league. He should burn this one up."

Nick reported that he had finally got rid of an injury jinx which had plagued him this spring and that he was at last "bitting that old potato."

"I'm going good now," he said. "I like the Reds and think we can fool some of the experts who don't think we can go so good. Benny Frey, who was with Nashville, is going great and Fred Lucas, who was also in this league, is good. The staff looks fine. If we can just hit for them we'll go good."

Cullop came to Atlanta Wednesday morning and spent the day. "I like this town," he said. "I always did. I just wanted to come up and look around."

The Reds came through Atlanta shortly after 6 o'clock and Cullop joined them, meeting them at Birmingham, where the Reds and Barons play today.

The Crackers, rained out Wednesday, spent the day in illness. Johnny Dobbs, his brow still contracted over the "B" situation, was hopeful that the weather would clear, moderate or do something to get in shape for baseball. The Crackers will play the Baltimore Orioles today if the weather permits.

RADCLIFFE OUT. The latest report from the White Sox was that Rip Radcliffe, the former Selma first baseman, was definitely out of the running for a job and would not be retained.

It is thought that he will be offered the Crackers when the White Sox come through for an exhibition game next week. Whether Dobbs wants him or not is not known. Mike Shirley is playing great ball at first base and Dobbs would be extremely loath to move him from that spot.

Dobbs declared Wednesday that he might carry one less "B" man than the law requires by simply reducing the squad one man. Dobbs could carry six "B" men during the first 30 days and to 17 during the remaining months. A squad of 20 is possible for the first month but must be reduced to 18.

UNSUCCESSFUL. The Crackers' efforts to get a needed "B" man, to avoid that emergency reduction of the squad, have been singularly unsuccessful. Reading was supposed to help out but so far has failed to come through. The Browns promised some help but the man offered was found to be an "A" man. Cracker officials talked with Baltimore.

DUNLAP, MORRIS IN A. A. U. BOUTS

Two Tech Boxers Enter Meet at New York This Month.

By Ralph McGill.

Earl Dunlap, Georgia Tech football captain in 1930, and a light-heavyweight boxer, and Max Morris, Tech middleweight, will attend the national A. A. U. boxing championships at Madison Square Garden, New York, the latter part of this month, it was announced Wednesday.

Morris, a middleweight, is one of the most promising boxers to be developed at Tech this year. He won the southeastern A. A. U. championship in the tournament held a few weeks ago at the Atlanta Athletic Club.

Morris is fast and a clever boxer. He won his southeastern title by a wide margin. He also won his class championship at Tech in the recent tournament there.

Dunlap, while he did not participate in the southeastern or Tech tournaments because of a knee injury, was a winner in the light-heavyweight class at Camp McClellan last year during the summer military training period.

Four boxers have been invited from the southeastern division. In addition to the two Tech boxers, Neal Truesdale, Presbyterian College, and George Clausen, Mobile, Ala., have been extended invitations.

Both Truesdale and Clausen participated in the tournament at the Athletic Club. Truesdale has never lost a fight in his three years of boxing at Presbyterian College. He and Morris were the two who looked best in the southeastern.

The two Tech entries will go as A. A. U. boxers and not as Tech representatives, as Tech does not yet recognize the sport as a major one. Boxing has flourished at Tech for two years, however, and it is thought that next season may find it established as an intercollegiate sport.

The national A. A. U. tournament will be held in the famous Madison Square Garden, scene of the big New York bouts.

Petrel Matmen Set For Card Tonight

Bill Manley, Oglethorpe wrestling instructor, and Jack McAdams, of Atlanta, will headline an Oglethorpe mat program at 8 o'clock tonight in the Petrel gymnasium. It will be the third of a series of matches to be staged at the school.

In the semi-windup Nick Nicholson will meet Glyn Cowan.

Others on the program include "Tarzan" Barber and "Oxy Deal" and a five-minute match between two football hunkies in "a la country style."

A three-round boxing match has been placed on the card as an opening attraction. There will be no charge and the public is cordially invited.

Sweepstakes Prize Restrained by Court

DUBLIN, April 1.—(AP)—The Irish hospital trust has been restrained from paying the first prize in the grand national sweepstakes to Emilio Scala, London cafe proprietor, it was reported today.

Johnny Dobbs and his Crackers were sitting in their dugout the other day watching the batting practice of the Philadelphia Athletics, champions of the world.

As Moore, Haas, Cochrane, Johnson, Foxx, Miller and Dykes came to the plate and smashed out powerful drives, the Crackers yipped and chattered as an expert cheering section. At the same time they noted the hitting peculiarities of the A's; whether certain men liked high or low pitches to hit. This information would come in useful in the game later on.

Jim Foxx, the giant who plays anywhere on the team, astounded them by the way he was smashing the ball out to the fences. He picked out a low ball and lifted it a mile over the left field bleachers. Next time up he selected another pitch about knee-high and drove that one over the same barrier.

"That Foxx is a low-ball hitter; he don't like 'em high," Climax Blethen declared. Climax was to be the pitcher of the day and he was tabulating the hitters as they came up.

Just then Foxx connected with a ball up around his shoulders and away it flew almost to the scoreboard.

"There goes your high ball, Climax," Ray Francis yelled.

THE DIFFERENCE. It was a matter of note that the A's hit the ball harder than the average major league club. Their infield rollers were hard enough to tear off a glove and their line drives whistled over the infield like machine gun bullets.

"Why can't you bushers hit 'em like that?" Johnny Dobbs asked his hired help.

"If we could we wouldn't be in this dugout now," was the answer from Mayor Francis, of Chisel Switch.

A BOZEMAN BULGER STORY. Cullen Cain, head of the public relations department of the National league and a newspaperman of national reputation, is spending a few days in Atlanta in the course of a training camp tour. He has written a summary of National league prospects, published in this issue, that bears the stamp of authority and is free from any "home town" slant. You will enjoy reading it.

Cain brought in a story about Bozeman Bulger that is a final and a humorous echo of the demise of the New York World. Bozeman was a Birmingham newspaperman in years gone by; everybody knows him.

Bulger had been in San Antonio a week, covering the Giants' training camp for the World, when word came that his paper had been sold out. Naturally that upset business for the day.

"Boze" filed the last routine report in a daze and retired to his hotel room with a few friends to mourn over the tragedy.

It was along toward 4 in the morning when, after a strange silence had held the company for several minutes, Bozeman offered this final three-star word:

"You know when I went to work for the World I thought it was going to be permanent . . . and here I am adrift after only 23 years' service."

Bulger, however, was too good to be free long. He now is sports editor of the Saturday Evening Post. What an easy chair!!

LA GRANGE BOYS FLOCK TO 'KID'

Interest Runs High in American Legion's Baseball School.

LA GRANGE, April 1.—Rain and a muddy field did not discourage the boys who are attending the American Legion Baseball school which is being conducted here at the LaGrange High school athletic field by Kid Elberfeld.

Scores reported to the Tobacco Kid in the high school gymnasium and the teaching and fun went on just as if the skies were clear and the ground dry.

The Kid gathered a number of them, the younger boys, those 15 and under, at 2:30 and at 4 o'clock the older boys came for instruction. This schedule will be observed during the week.

Elberfeld will go to Hogsheadville Wednesday and Friday morning of this week to instruct the boys of that community in the fine art of catching, batting, hurling and running. Hogsheadville will enter a team in the junior baseball league which is being sponsored by the Baxter L. Schmitt.

The Junior Baseball league, which is sponsored by the local post of the legion under the direction of J. R. Finn, commander, and Cooper Davis, chairman of the athletic committee, will have at least seven teams in the loop and the baseball school being taught by Elberfeld is a preparatory measure for the opening of the league April 11.

JOHNSON LAID TO FINAL REST

SPENCER, Ind., April 1.—(AP)—The body of Byron Bancroft Johnson, one of the founders and first president of the American league, was laid to rest today in the crypt of a mausoleum he had erected two years ago.

His funeral services, held at the Spencer Christian church, were attended by many of his associates in his long career as president of the American league. Some of them only yesterday at Cleveland had participated in the last rites for Ernest S. Barnard, who followed Johnson into office as president of the league.

Barnard died last Friday in Rochester, Minn., and Johnson followed him in death 16 hours later at St. Louis.

Members of a Masonic lodge at Cincinnati, of which Johnson was a member, held ritualistic services. Pallbearers were Spencer businessmen.

Floral tributes were piled high around the bronze casket. They came from the host of friends accumulated by Johnson during his more than a quarter of a century administration of the American league.

Representatives of the national pastime who came to pay final tribute included: Frank J. Navin, president of the Detroit Tigers and vice president of the American league; John A. Heydler, president of the National league; William Harbridge, secretary of the American league; Thomas F. Shibe, president of the Philadelphia Athletics; Clark Griffith, president of the Washington Senators; Robert Quinn, president of the Boston Red Sox; Ed G. Barrow, secretary of the New York Yankees; and Phil Ball, president of the St. Louis Browns.

How my mother ever managed that tedious voyage, which I still recall with quaking knees, how she guided us through the intricacies of entry, knowing nothing of English, and took us into the heart of a new, strange and bewildering country without mishap—how, in brief, she achieved the first step in our Americanization—unaided by anybody, is one of the millions of minor miracles that are of the stuff and fabric of America.

In Chicago we lived in the Logan Square neighborhood—chiefly inhabited by Irish and Swedes. Chicago's broad ethnology called all Scandinavians "Swedes." The Irish were clubby, so were the Swedes. My lot was naturally with the latter. On a huge vacant corner boys of the two nationalities would meet on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons in impromptu and sometimes violent contests.

I was an end on the Tricky Tigers—historic rivals of the Avondales—so called because we had a woe of a triple pass back of the line when we wanted to impress opponents and onlookers. Our equipment wasn't elaborate. No helmets, one shinguard per player. We tied our ears with elastic tape to prevent spraining.

Knute Rockne's Story Tells of Long Career

Boyhood Dreams Were Filled With Football. Walter Eckersall Was His Hero.

By Knute Rockne. The referee was Walter Eckersall. Grasping his hand, I said: "I've been waiting years for this." "For what?" said Eckersall.

"To shake your hand," I said, recounting how his brilliant performance for Hyde Park High had turned my mind seriously to football.

"Stop, stop," said Eckersall in the middle of the recital, "or Notre Dame will be penalized five yards for speech-making."

How a youngster from Voss, a hamlet in Norway that lies between Bergen and Oslo, could find himself in his mid-twenties captain of a typical, mid-western American football team may require explaining. Perhaps it's sufficient explanation to say that this evolution is a typical American story—in business, athletics and politics. It has occurred so often that it's ordinary. The breaks came my way when I had sense enough to leave them; and while that's an unromantic way of explaining a career it has the advantage of being the truth.

QUEEN DID IT. Her celebrated majesty Queen Margaret of Norway had something to do with it. At least, there's the word of a student of Norse genealogy to that effect. It's an an elaborately inscribed piece of parchment that looks like a map-outline of all the football plays ever invented. This, on close personal, informs me that I'm descended—among others—from one Enridre Erlandsen, of Losna, Norway. He and his tribe were landowners of some consequence. When Queen Margaret merged the three kingdoms of Norway, Sweden and Denmark, she did not retain the best features of each. At least, my pride in ancestry won't permit me to believe that she did. For the Erlandsens of Losna refused to have anything to do with the merger, retiring, in a collective huff to the town of Voss and there establishing themselves in the hills. Generations elapsed, the hills remained the same, but it became harder and harder to make a good living.

The traditional venturesomeness of the Norsemen, aided by infiltration of Irish blood acquired when the earlier and harder Vikings invaded Ireland looking for trouble and returned to Norway with colts for wives, breaks out at intervals. With my father it broke out when I was about five.

TO AMERICA. The World's Fair was to be held in Chicago. Dad, by profession a stationary engineer and by avocation a carriage builder, wanted to show his wares at the World's Fair. He went to America. Later, he sent for his family. My mother took her three daughters and her only son to New York and were duly admitted through Castle Garden.

How my mother ever managed that tedious voyage, which I still recall with quaking knees, how she guided us through the intricacies of entry, knowing nothing of English, and took us into the heart of a new, strange and bewildering country without mishap—how, in brief, she achieved the first step in our Americanization—unaided by anybody, is one of the millions of minor miracles that are of the stuff and fabric of America.

In Chicago we lived in the Logan Square neighborhood—chiefly inhabited

by Irish and Swedes. Chicago's broad ethnology called all Scandinavians "Swedes." The Irish were clubby, so were the Swedes. My lot was naturally with the latter. On a huge vacant corner boys of the two nationalities would meet on Wednesday and Saturday afternoons in impromptu and sometimes violent contests.

MY FIRST REAL FIRE. My first real baptism of fire was received in one of those neighborhood corner-lot games. I was an end on the Tricky Tigers—historic rivals of the Avondales—so called because we had a woe of a triple pass back of the line when we wanted to impress opponents and onlookers. Our equipment wasn't elaborate. No helmets, one shinguard per player. We tied our ears with elastic tape to prevent spraining.

Many of us graduated to the Barefoot Athletic Club of older boys, mostly Irish. In a crucial game with the Hamburg A. C. for the district championship trouble came in hand-picks. Crowds lined the gridiron and broke into it as the game progressed. Irish sympathizers were militant. Only seven policemen were there to hold back the mob. Things grew unpleasant as the more pugnacious spectators slipped away every now and then for refreshments at nearby saloons.

The game was held in a huge lot opposite the White Sox ball park. My part in it was not brilliant, but dramatic. In those early days I had spindly legs, which I've retained, and speedy feet, which left me long ago. When the call to carry the ball came, I'd lay back my ears and sprint. That afternoon the call came. Sprinting in an end run with the Hamburg boys after me, my path to a touchdown was clear. Not a Hamburg player was in front. But Hamburg roared came to the rescue. They threw me and swiped the ball. Minor riot ensued, players on both teams being pummeled impartially.

SQUAD RETURNS. Most of us returned home that evening with evidence of a strenuous afternoon's sport. For me, this was a serious matter. As a football initiate, I played the game surreptitiously, my parents sharing the general belief that football was a system of modified massacre. Scars of battle in the Hamburg game betrayed me. My football career was squelched. As it was nearing winter, this didn't matter much, for when spring arrived with the crack of baseballs and bats, I went out with the rest of the sandlot gang. The family approved, baseball. During a vicious, extra-inning game with the Maplewood boys, I got argument developed. Being blessed or bothered by hidden strains of Irish ancestry, I found myself in the thick of it. Suddenly a bat went on the bridge of my nose. I went home blinded, but uppermost in my mind was not sorrow, but logic. The family had banned football because it was dangerous.

"And I got this nose from baseball," was my triumphant reply. (End of Installment I.)

In his next article Rockne tells about his first experiences in the big-time game and of Durais, the Will-o'-the-wisp. He describes the introduction of the aerial offense, which later carried Notre Dame to a smashing victory over the Army. (Copyright by the Bell Syndicate, 1931.)

Jack Mooney Bows to John Van Ryn in Tourney at New Orleans

SUTTER, VINES, LOTT ADVANCE TO SEMI-FINALS

Atlanta Net Star Bows in Straight Sets, 6-0 and 6-2.

NEW ORLEANS, April 1.—(AP)—Top players in the New Orleans Country Club invitation tennis tournament, running true to form, advanced today into the semi-finals, matches being won by Clifford Sutter, of New Orleans; Ellsworth Vines, of Pasadena, and George Lott and John Van Ryn, of Philadelphia.

Tomorrow in the semi-finals Sutter will meet Van Ryn while Lott fights it out with the tall and rangy Vines.

They reached this lineup by victories today in which Sutter won first from Jake Hess, of Rice Institute, Houston, 6-1, 6-3, and later defeated Quick, 6-2, 11-9. Lott won, 6-0, 6-4, from Frankie Parker, the Milwaukee boy, and Van Ryn eliminated Jack Mooney, of Atlanta, 6-0, 6-2. Vines, after losing his first set with Morton Buxby, of Austin, settled down and won, 6-8, 6-0, 6-4.

Sutter showed no ill effects from a blistered foot which kept him out of play yesterday and he easily disposed of Hess. He out-steadied Quick in the first set, both players chiefly dueling from the baseline. They continually lost service games in the second set and Quick frequently came to the net to even the game score. Adopting like tactics, Sutter at the close advanced behind his service and won in the fore court. Quick suffered a foot cramp near the end which at times seemed to bother him.

Parker was given no quarter in the first set by Lott, who opened up from the start to quickly run off six games. The boy's placements were more accurate in the second set, however, and he won the gallery's admiration. Lott's short shots, just dropping over the net, time and again caught Parker beyond reach in the back court.

ing time to sound in the local refreshment shops without laying in a supply of potables to tide them overnight. They appealed to "Boze" for help.

It happened that in return for some press agent work, a patent medicine company had given Bozeman a case of its powerful tonic. Bulger presented the case to the visiting firemen. And a pleasant time was had by all. It led to Bulger being drafted less than a year later by the World.

WHEN ROCKNE "ORATED."

As the days go on, Knute Rockne will become a legend and as such will live as long as men love football. Rockne was surrounded by an aura of incident. Things happened wherever he might be. He told stories well and supplied the material for many more. He moved through life as incarnate adventure; his passing to and fro left a wake of anecdote.

Ralph Cannon, of the Chicago Daily News, relates a tale that reveals another side to Rockne's policy in the dressing room of his teams.

While usually Rockne scorned the emotional appeal to his men at times he found the need for a good old-fashioned oration. This is the yarn:

A Rockne oration between halves, when he was really warmed up, ranked with the best of all-time oratory. At a banquet he once was called on to fill in for a speaker who had failed to appear. He got up in apologetic manner, explaining that he didn't have any idea what he might say to fill in the time. He said that people often asked him what he said to his team between the halves of a close game. He said he might try to explain.

Then gradually he began to work into the atmosphere of the dressing room with its fumes of liniment and sweat. "We are going out there and fight... fight!"

He began solemnly, weaving his magic spell. The whole audience felt the pull of the situation; their pulses whipped with the excitement. Steadily Rockne went on, creeping upon his climax. The listeners leaned forward in their chairs, hypnotized, breathless. At last he wound up dramatically:

"Now we are going out there to fight... fight, fight and win..."

And then he demanded heroically:

"Are you... with me...?"

And en masse the whole banquet room arose and shouted as one man:

"Yes!"

Then the listeners looked at each other sheepishly and slipped back into their chairs with much cuffling and confusion, realizing how they had lost themselves in his magnetic personality.

PURPLES' FALL CARD IS MADE

Boys' High Will Play Night Games at Spiller Field.

A nine-game schedule with three new opponents, has been arranged for the Boys' High football team for 1931. It was announced Wednesday by Paul Rosser, athletic director at the school.

Two, and possibly three, of the games scheduled for Spiller field will be played at night, Rosser said Wednesday.

Madison Aggies, winner of the northern division title of the G. I. A. A. last year, Elmore High, of Elmore, Tenn., and Columbus High, of Columbus, Ga., are the new faces for the Purple Hurricane for next fall.

The old teams on the schedule include Savannah High, Darlington school, Georgia Military Academy, Lanier High, Tech High and Sidney Lanier High, of Montgomery, Ala.

Only three of the games will be played at Spiller field, with the remaining six on foreign gridirons. Madison Aggies who defeated Boys' High two years ago to win the northern division title of the G. I. A. A. in a playoff, will open the schedule on Friday, September 25, at Spiller field, in a night game. It will be the first regularly scheduled game with the Aggies.

G. M. A. and Tech High, two of the Big Four opponents, will be played on October 15 and November 14, respectively. The G. M. A. game will likely be played at night and should the weather be favorable the Tech High game will be a night affair.

R. L. "Shorty" Doyal, who has piloted the Hurricane for the past six years, both in football and baseball, will again direct the destinies of the 1931 eleven. He was a lineman on the famous Georgia Tech team of 1917 and has developed some of the best teams in the history of Boys' High.

The complete schedule follows:

Sept. 25—Madison Aggies at Spiller.

Oct. 2—Savannah at Savannah.

Oct. 10—Darlington at Darlington.

Oct. 15—G. M. A. at Spiller.

Oct. 24—Elmore at Elmore, Tenn.

Oct. 26—Lanier at Macon.

Nov. 6—Open.

Nov. 14—Tech High at Spiller.

Nov. 20—Columbus High at Columbus.

Nov. 20—Sidney Lanier at Montgomery.

more officials Wednesday but Baltimore could offer no aid at all.

The Orioles and Crackers are scheduled to play at 2:30 this afternoon. Johnny Morrison is scheduled to pitch for Atlanta.

The Crackers, with the exception of Si Rosenthal, are in good shape. Rosenthal is suffering from something resembling lumbago and hasn't been able to get in shape. Rosenthal is paying the penalty of reporting late. He might find himself unable to break into the lineup once he recovers.

John Boles Had Big League Chance

John Boles, popular screen star and a former Texas High school pitching sensation, will appear in person at the Capitol theater all next week. He will appear on the stage starting Saturday, three times each day.

During his high school days Boles attracted the attention of two big league scouts but never learned of the offers made to his father. He devoted his spare time while at the University of Texas to the glee club and was a soloist for three years.

Roy Dunn Fights Here Friday Night

Another all-star colored boxing card featuring Dynamite Roy Dunn, of Macon, and Bob Hunter, in a 10-rounder will be presented at 8:30 o'clock Friday night at Savoy Hall, 229 1-2 Decatur street. Others on the program include Young Billy Hooper and K. O. Tom for eight rounds, Young Wildcat and Kid Gary, six rounds and a battle royal.

A special section has been reserved for white people.

shot, only to return five minutes later. Upon the plane's return, he said the motors were faltering.

Similar stories about the circling of the plane were told by Edward Baker and his brother, Arthur, who were first to reach the wreck.

No fire. Edward Baker said he detected the odor of gasoline when he reached the wreckage, but there was no evidence of an explosion or fire.

Among the witnesses were J. A. Collins, Columbus, Ohio, assistant superintendent of the eastern division of Transcontinental and Western Air, Inc., and Jack Frye, vice president in charge of operations at Los Angeles, who flew here to investigate the accident.

Frye said the parting of a wing on types of ships such as the Fokker were unheard of in his experience. Collins said he had heard of such an accident only vaguely.

L. E. Mann, deputy sheriff, said he saw numerous small, odd-shaped pieces of ice near the wreckage.

Leonard Jurden, inspector for the aeronautical branch of the department of commerce, testified the ship's pilots were properly qualified.

Several witnesses testified the wing broke "cleanly" from the plane.

The body of G. A. Rohrbach will be sent to Wheeling, W. Va., tonight. The other bodies also will be sent to the homes of the victims.

Numerous effects of the victims were in possession of A. L. Deering, sheriff. These he placed in gunnysacks and locked in his office vault and that of a bank here. He said he would hold them until claimed by relatives.

South Bend Receives Her Distinguished Dead.

SOUTH BEND, Ind., April 1.—(AP)—Knute Rockne came back home tonight.

As several thousand citizens of South Bend and students of Notre Dame University stood by, the casket containing the body of the famous coach arrived here at 11:08 p. m., from Chicago, completing the last lap of its journey from Cottonwood, Kan., where he fell to his death yesterday with seven other victims of an airplane disaster.

The throng came to pay tribute to a warrior gone to rest.

Under an escort of motorcycle police, the casket was removed to the L. W. McGinnis funeral home, to await the return tomorrow of Mrs. Rockne. She is due to arrive in Chicago from Florida at 2:30 p. m., with the two younger children, and will proceed immediately to South Bend to lay plans for Rock's funeral.

Sorrowing Students Receive Body.

CHICAGO, April 1.—(AP)—Sorrowing men of Notre Dame, heads bared and with tear-filled eyes, stood with thousands of plain every-day Chicagoans tonight to receive, in silence, the body of their pal and football coach, Knute Rockne.

As the train bearing Rockne's body from Kansas City pulled into the Dearborn street station the throng, numbering thousands, silently looked on. Their hands of Rockne's football buddies lifted the box containing his casket and escorted it half a dozen blocks away to the La Salle street station, placing it aboard a train that was taking Rockne to his homecom.

Rev. C. L. O'Donnell, president of Notre Dame. "I mourn with Notre Dame the loss of her great coach," Secretary Hurley wrote. "He was more than a creator of fine football teams. He was a builder of character and because he was that, his untimely passing is a loss to the country. Notre Dame loses his aggressive leadership but not the inspiration of his nobility of character."

Cleveland Is Favored as Site of Stribling-Schmeling Title Bout

HUGE STADIUM IDEAL PLACE, JACOBS SAYS

Rent Only Factor Holding Up Decision, Officials State.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 1.—(AP) Cleveland appeared tonight to have the inside track in the bidding between Chicago, Detroit and this city for the heavyweight championship battle to be held probably July 2, between Champion Max Schmeling and W. L. "Young" Stribling.

William E. Carey, president of Madison Square Corporation, and Joe Jacobs, manager of the German titleholder, tonight took under advisement the matter of selecting between Cleveland's mammoth downtown stadium, Chicago's huge Soldier field and Detroit's arena, after prolonged conferences with Cleveland officials.

It was said unofficially that differences over rental of Cleveland stadium were the sole factor holding up a decision favoring it as the site. The conference indicated they would sleep over their respective offers, get together again and probably be ready by tomorrow night to announce a definite decision.

After the conference broke up tonight, Jacobs said that without hesitation he considered that Cleveland "has the inside track."

"The stadium is ideal, with its seating capacity for a boxing bout around 120,000 or more, and its arrangement from the spectator's viewpoint is perfect. They can see from any angle, something that cannot be said for Soldier field."

Carey and E. C. Wetton, representative of the Madison Square Garden Corporation of Illinois, were non-committal except to say that they planned to confer by telephone with Sheldon Clark, president of the Illinois Garden group, and George Getz, member of the Illinois state athletic commission, and with Detroiters seeking the bout.

THE SPORTLIGHT

By Kenneth Rice

Dead Leaders.

IT SEEMS strange that April, the start of a new season and a fresh campaign, should be taken up with comment upon dead leaders who have had vital influences upon two of the nation's leading games—football and baseball. Yet this will be the week of three funerals that leave dark shadows above both sports—Knute Rockne, Ban Johnson and Ernest Barnard.

Ban Johnson's first baseball fame goes back to 1894 when, as a leader of the Western league, seven of the eight clubs made money. It was around late 1899 or 1900 that Johnson, Loftus and Comiskey heard of a gathering to start a new league in Chicago where A. H. Spink, Frank Hough, Francis Rochier, T. J. Navin, Charles Havenor, S. D. Quinn, Pop Anson and others were in conference, and this first gathering led soon to the formation of the new circuit, which Ban Johnson carried forward. Ernest Barnard was an important figure in baseball as far back as 1904 with Cleveland, where his keen judgment was a big help to Kilfoyl and Somers. He was one of the ablest of all baseball leaders.

Knute Rockne came into fame later on, but for more than 10 years he has been the most famous figure in sport instruction and development, whatever the game. He had inspirational qualities that are beyond all price and are far harder to reproduce than mere coaching skill.

Rockne's Way.

Rockne had few stars thrown his way in freshman or sophomore years. He developed most of his talent. I have seen his shock troops come along without any outstanding qualities. But as juniors and seniors these unknowns would suddenly be among the stars of the game. Here is just one example: After the campaign of 1929 he lost two of his regular tackles. "I still have two pretty fair tackles coming on," he said last summer. Then something happened to this pair of tackles and they dropped out of college. Any coach can know what it means to lose two veteran tackles and then to lose the two substitute tackles he had banked on to fill the gap. Yet without any complaining or muttering against fate, Rockne opened the 1930 season with two of the best tackles in the game, fine linemen he had developed from raw material.

It was not so much that Notre Dame had great material pouring into the South Bend campus. It was largely because Knute's inspirational leadership made football so popular at his university that he was able each year to have 35 or 40 fine football players ready for service, with 30 more waiting to fill their places.

MRS. ROCKNE ASKS 'BOYS' TO BE THERE

her. The collapse, if it comes at all, will not come until the dead Viking has been placed in his grave. She did not want the body to lie in state, nor to have any great services at the stadium. It seemed that if the boys were there she and the dead Viking would be content.

Jackie, the idol of Rockne, played about the Pullman car. He is not old enough to grasp the idea of the tragedy.

Coach W. A. Alexander, of Georgia Tech, who, with Cannon and the writer, met the train, patted the boy on the head. "My daddy is sick, I think," said Jackie. "I am going up to surprise him."

Mary Jean, the young daughter, was as heroic as her mother. Her father would have been proud of her. Her mop of blonde hair was unruly. Her eyes were deep and her face drawn. But her face was set, as was her mother's, and she sat in her seat making a fight that was even more gallant than any Rockne's football heroes ever made.

Mrs. Rockne was sustained, she said, by her unwavering faith in the goodness of God and by the kindness and sympathy of the people who had been with her since the tragedy.

"People have been so good to us all," she said. "They just got me on the train and everything is ready. People are so kind I can never forget them. Everyone is so good."

Last Telephone Conversation.

Mrs. Rockne revealed that her husband had called her just about ten minutes before he boarded the plane for the trip west. He told her then that he had missed seeing his two sons, who were en route to Kansas City, by about ten minutes.

O'Neal, who is a resident of Ohio and who was in Miami with his family, told of how the news came.

"We were out riding on a shopping tour, my wife, Mrs. Rockne and I," he said. "A boy at a filling station, who knew me, told me the news. I got in the car and told Mrs. Rockne I wanted her to go see my brother, who is a priest. She clutched my arm and asked me, simply, 'Is it the plane?' I told her that it was and we went to my brother's."

Mrs. Rockne's chief concern seemed to be the boys who had played football for "The Rock." She wanted them all to know she wanted them to come to South Bend for Rockne's last homecoming if they possibly could.

Bachman With Party.

On the train with the party was Charlie Bachman, who was a freshman when Rockne started coaching. Bachman is now head coach at the University of Florida. He boarded the train at Jacksonville.

Jack Cannon, another of Rockne's boys, will leave tonight for South Bend. With him will go Coach Alexander, of Georgia Tech, a great friend of Rockne's.

Chet Wynne, who was on the Rockne team that included the great George Gipp, left Wednesday for South Bend. Harry Mehre, from Athens, and Chuck Collins, from Chapel Hill, also are expected to leave today.

All of Rockne's boys in the south who can possibly make the journey will be on the move and they will be the saddest homecoming that South Bend ever knew. And likely ever will know.

Broadcast Likely.

So great is the sorrow and so universal the grief, that it is likely the funeral services will be broadcast on a nation-wide hook-up.

On Saturday night, Ted Husing, on the Columbia chain, will broadcast eulogies from coaches in the east. He wired Coach Alexander for one Wednesday. "Seldom has the nation grieved as it is now grieving for Knute Rockne. Rockne was not only a genius in his profession. He was a brilliant orator, a profound student of chemistry, a splendid writer and had just started on a great career as a business executive and a movie director. Yet all these fine qualities did not endear him to his legion of friends as did his splendid personality and his human kindness. To know him was to love him. The love in which his boys hold him is a monument which time cannot destroy. Knute Rockne's soul will go marching on forever."—W. A. Alexander.

National League Official Here, Sees Tight Race

CULLEN CAIN FINDS TOO MANY 'IFS' AND 'ANDS'

Cards Look Stronger But Five Others Will Make Fight.

(Editor's Note—Cullen Cain, who is visiting in Atlanta, is head of the National League's publicity bureau and an all-around baseball. He prepared this interesting analysis of the National league specially for The Constitution.)

By Cullen Cain.

With the Florida training season ended and the National league clubs wending their way northward through Georgia and Tennessee, the all-absorbing question of who will win the league flag this year is still as much a matter of conjecture as it was last February. There are six clubs so evenly matched in playing strength that the "breaks" of the game alone through the season mark the difference between them.

The first thing The Constitution sports editor asked me was, "What club will win the flag this season?"

He thought I ought to know, coming here direct from the camps. But that question is too tough for me.

The folks from the Cardinals camp in Bradenton honestly believe they have a stronger team than they had last year, and they were stout enough in 1930 to win the pennant. But then the Cubs and the Braves and the Pirates are all stronger than they were last year. And John McGraw believes he has the best lot of young players this spring he has seen in many spring times.

MANY 'IFS'

There are so many "ifs" and "ands" to the present dope on these ball clubs. The Cards have a half-dozen amazing young players in their camp, called there from the nine Rickey farms over the country. They now plan to use Orsatti, the Italian, in left field in place of Hafey, the holdout. Not so heavy a hitter as Hafey, but Orsatti has a much better spirit. He has the dash and vim of a winner. And he can hit, too. They also have Pepper Martin in fine shape for the outfield. Their infield will be the same as last year, although Rip Collins, called in from Rochester, played a fine game at first base in the early games and looks a comer. They also have in Delker a promising lad for third base, but Adams will likely have the call to start there.

It is in the pitcher's box that the Cards look most formidable this spring. They have added Derringer and Dizzy Dean, two youngsters of rare promise. Make no mistake about this Dean. He is a marvel. I saw him hold the Athletics in the hollow of his pitching hand one day. They dodged balls that curved right over the plate. He fanned three of them in succession in one inning, and the utter and abandoned nonchalance with which he performed this exploit was as notable as the exploit itself.

DIZZY DEAN. But Dean has the mind of a ten-year-old child and is an uncertain staff to lean on. If he had the sound sense and character of Derringer, I would not hesitate to bet the Cards to repeat. Dean is another Waddell only he pitches with his right hand and is even more erratic than the famous Babe.

The Braves look much stouter with those two slugging outfielders, Schulmerich and Worthington added to their weak batting array of last year. McKinnis told me that the form of Bruce Cunningham, his young pitcher, pleased him more than anything else in camp this spring. The irrepressible Maraville is as spry and gay and fast as ever and bids fair to cross the 40-year mark as a big leaguer in the first flight.

The Phillies are having a rough time. Lewis Ruch, their new president, has done everything he possibly can to sign Chuck Klein and Pitcher Collins, but they are stubbornly holding out for more money than the club can possibly pay them. If these men get in line the Phillies will be stronger than last year as they have added pitchers of real class to their staff in Stoner, Jim Elliott and Bolen.

ROBINS STRONGER. The Robins show the same as last year with the mighty O'Doul added to their offense. But when you consider that Robin batting array of last year and then analyze the O'Doul batting average of nearly .400 you find a world of power on this club. If Vance, Phelps and Luque pitch up to their last season's form the Robins will have to be reckoned with all the way down the reaches of what promises to be the most hectic and evenly sustained flag race the older circuit has witnessed in its more than 50 years of baseball struggle.

I note that both the Pirates and the Cubs are having their troubles with the coast teams but they are using kid pitchers in these games and also rookies in other positions. Hornsby added real strength to a strong club when he secured Bob Smith from Boston. The Pirates will have in Wood, the left-hander, a young pitcher who showed a world of promise in the games he pitched in the league race last fall.

McGRAW'S CLUB. McGraw's bold stroke in shifting Lindstrom to the outfield and trying Vergez at third seems to be working out. It will make or break the Giants this year. Hubbell and Walker ought to do much better than they did last year. Those Giants must always be reckoned with.

Most of the boys are picking the Cincinnati Reds for last place, but Howley has a good pitching staff and young infield that looks tight and fast. It is not safe to pick a Howley team for last place. Dan has a way with him with young players.

And so it goes the way down the line. "If" Hornsby can play up to his old form. "If" Dizzy Dean behaves himself. "If" Lindstrom and Vergez make the McGraw shift work. "If" Worthington and Schulmerich can hit big league pitching. "If" Vance and Luque have another great year left in their aging wings. "If" Wood pitches up to promise. If I knew about these "ifs" I would tell your esteemed and honorable sports editor in a minute who would win the flag in our league. But mark me well, mates, it will be some hot and desperate race this year from the first bloom of the lowly April leaf to the falling of that same brave leaf in late September.

BILLIARD NOTES. More than 500 boys will compete in the Chicago Y. M. C. A. championship junior pocket billiard tournament which will open on the night of April 5, according to plans just completed by C. A. Storer, director of tournaments for the National Billiard Association of America. Sixteen Y. M. C. A. branches will be the scenes of the tournaments, and the entire Chicago area will be divided into four districts with a chairman in charge of each district.

Jack Quinn Recalls His Start at Macon

MACON, Ga., April 1.—(AP) This city has started old Jack Quinn, veteran pitcher for the Brooklyn Robins, on a train of reminiscences about his bush league days.

"Twenty-three years ago," says John Picus, "I breezed into Macon and breezed out again with a sore arm. I was in six leagues that season, with Toledo, Denver, Atlanta, Macon, Pottsville, Pa., and Richmond, Va. The next year, in 1908, I got my first big league chance with the New York Yankees."

BULLDOGS PLAY LINERS TODAY

ATHENS, Ga., April 1.—Wet grounds and high winds forced the postponement of the game scheduled here today between the Georgia Bulldogs and the University of Maryland. The second game of the series will be played here tomorrow afternoon with the extra game probably being played off later in the season. The Bulldogs will leave for Gainesville, Fla., immediately after the game Thursday, where they will open their Dixie college league season against the Florida Gators, Friday and Saturday.

The Central of Georgia train to Macon will wait on the siding near the ball park while the Bulldogs play their game tomorrow. They will board the train immediately after the game for Gainesville.

JACKETS PLAY CAROLINA NINE THIS AFTERNOON

Fred Holt Will Lead Team in First Series of Season.

Georgia Tech will formally open its collegiate baseball schedule at 4 o'clock this afternoon on the Rose Bowl diamond with the University of South Carolina Gamecocks as opponents. It will be the first of a three-game series that will terminate Saturday afternoon. Both the Friday and Saturday games will be played at 3 o'clock, it was announced Wednesday.

Coach Alva Clay had originally planned to open the schedule last week with a brace of games with Oglethorpe University as practice affairs but cold weather delayed the opening until today.

The South Carolina series will be the last of the games before the Jackets swing into action next week-end at Macon with the Mercer Bears in the newly organized Dixie College Baseball League. South Carolina is not a member of the league.

At a meeting held early in the week Fred (Grab) Holt, first baseman, was elected to captain the team. He succeeds Ray Brosnan, who was recently ruled ineligible by the faculty.

Coach Clay was undecided Wednesday night as to his pitching selection for today but it is likely that "Canham" Fred Baker or Lefty Everett will oppose the Gamecocks. The remainder of the lineup will consist of Farmer and Dawson, catchers; Holt, first base; Drennan, second base; Isaacs, short; Horsett, third, and McKee, Waldrup and Harper in the outfield.

Exhibition Games and Training News

HOYT LOSES. SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—(AP) Waite Hoyt was hit hard when his meant runs and the San Francisco Seals defeated the Detroit Tigers, 6 to 3, in an exhibition game here today.

PIRATES WIN. LOS ANGELES, April 1.—(AP) Captain Pie Traynor's eyes bothered him a bit last season, but he proved conclusively today that they are all right now by slamming out five hits in as many chances, as the Pittsburgh Pirates downed the Chicago Cubs, 11 to 7.

Chicago (N) ..... 120 100 200-7 9 1
Pittsburgh (N) ..... 103 100 125-11 7 0
Traynor, Beech, Warrick and Z. Taylor; French, Spencer and Hensley.

PELS BEAT FERRELL. NEW ORLEANS, La., April 1.—(AP) Wesley Ferrell, ace of the Cleveland pitching staff, went the full nine innings today but long hits plus errors gave the New Orleans Pelicans a 5-to-1 decision over the Indians.

A triple by Hale, a pass, a single and an error counted for two of New Orleans.

After a series of games with the Reading Keys last week the Jackets are a much improved baseball team. Only a couple of stars from last year were left after graduation and faculty rulings, but Coach Clay has moulded a team together that played well against the International league team.

Orleans' runs in the fourth while in the eighth after the veteran, Jamison, dropped an easy fly. Hale came through with a double, Luce with a triple and with the aid of another error the Pelicans counted three times.

New Orleans ..... 000 200 600-5 6 1
Cleveland ..... 000 000 100-1 10 2
Johnson, Booder and O'Neill; Parks; Ferrell and Howell, Sprins.

BREAK CAMP. ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., April 1.—(AP) Breaking camp for the annual trek northward kept the Braves busy today, although they found time to sandwich in an afternoon workout on the diamond.

Judge Emil Fuchs and his wife left for the north ahead of the team, which will follow tomorrow. Their first stop will be in Macon, Ga., for a two-game series with Brooklyn.

PHILLIES TO CUT. ASHEVILLE, N. C., April 1.—(AP) Some of the young ball players who will be farmed out by the Phillies probably will go to the Richmond, Eastern league, club to help out the veteran Cy Williams.

Williams dropped out of the Phillies' lineup last year and recently signed to manage Richmond. "Cy is to meet us in Philadelphia," Manager Shotton said today, "and will look over our squad. Any player we can spare will certainly go to him."

SOUND REASONING. GREENVILLE, S. C., April 1.—(AP) William (Kid) Glendon, coach for the Philadelphia Athletics and himself a former pitcher, takes issue with modern strategists who say it does a pitcher good to be batted all over the lot once in a while.

"No pitcher will be helped by being pounded punch drunk," he said today. "When I managed the White Sox I sometimes if a pitcher stay in and take a lacing for some infraction of club rules, but never when he was just naturally off form. A pitcher's main asset is confidence, and if he's socked plenty through nine innings he will have very little confidence the next time."

STREET OPINES. BRADENTON, Fla., April 1.—(AP) Gabby Street, whose Cardinals were kept idle by rain this afternoon, when they were scheduled to play the Indianapolis Indians, thinks the National league race will be a five-team affair.

"I expect my team to win the pennant," he said, "but it will be after stiff opposition." Five teams, he said, appear to be evenly matched—Pirates, Cubs, Giants, Robins and Cardinals.

VANCE HONORED. MACON, Ga., April 1.—(AP) With today's game with Cincinnati halted by bad weather, the Brooklyn Robins gave the center of their stage to Dazzy Vance and the signing of his contract. The Dazzer, a bit peeved at having to come down $2,000 on his salary demands, arrived early this morning and affixed his signature to the contract just before noon. He joined the team in the afternoon in a brief and chilly workout.

GIANTS WORK. MEMPHIS, Tenn., April 1.—(AP) After two days of complete idleness, the New York Giants got in a brief workout today, but a wet field and chilly weather limited their drill to a short batting practice and a run around the outfield. The Giants will

STUDEBAKER LOW UPKEEP SETS SERVICE RECORD FOR BLACK & WHITE CABS

Above: Part of the fleet of 32 Studebakers already in use, and when the additional 75 are delivered it will mean 107 Studebaker Black and White and Yellow Cabs here.

LARGEST SINGLE ORDER EVER PLACED FOR RETAIL DELIVERY IN ATLANTA

We considered the order received last fall from the Atlanta Baggage and Cab Company for 32 Studebakers to be used for Black and White and Yellow Taxi Service to the people of Atlanta a distinct compliment to the qualities of Studebaker. We knew the standards by which Studebaker is built and knew it would come through with flying colors. Mr. Belle Isle's letter reproduced herewith is proof of our contentions and the sincerity of his claim is verified by his order for 75 additional Studebakers—the largest single order ever placed for retail delivery in Atlanta.

FREE WHEELING IN STUDEBAKER MEANS SAFE ECONOMICAL TRANSPORTATION

Add the outstanding safety . . . the distinctive beauty . . . the luxurious comfort . . . championship performance . . . and record-making economy . . . to Studebaker's FREE WHEELING and you have the supreme triumph of present day automotive achievement.

BLACK AND WHITE CAB COMPANY

OPERATORS OF
BLACK AND WHITE AND YELLOW CABS
220 IVY STREET, N. E., ATLANTA, GEORGIA

March 17, 1931.

Mr. J. E. Yarbrough, President,
Yarbrough Motor Car Company,
Atlanta, Georgia.

Dear Mr. Yarbrough:

Following a rate reduction for taxicab service during the fall of 1930 we went into the pleasure car market endeavoring to find a suitable car which could be converted into a standard taxicab by the installation of partitions and other devices.

You will recall that a trial order was placed with your company for Studebaker, standard six cylinder sedans and since the initial order we have increased the number purchased to thirty-two, which are now in service.

The experience with Studebaker equipment has proven most satisfactory, in that we find the up-keep considerably less than any other type of car now in use by our company. The cars purchased are averaging approximately 4,000 miles per month.

The cooperation offered by the Studebaker factory, as well as your organization, prompts us in a decision reached to add additional Studebaker cars to our fleet.

You may enter our order for an additional 75 standard six, sedans, deliveries to be made in accordance with schedule, which is a part of the contract agreement to purchase, signed and delivered to your representatives today.

Yours very truly,

ATLANTA BAGGAGE & CAB COMPANY
A. L. BELLE ISLE, VICE PRESIDENT

Numerous Parties To Be Given During Easter at Brookhaven

During the Easter season Brookhaven, the Capital City Country Club, will be the scene of parties galore, including luncheons, teas and dinners, at which popular visitors and college belles will be central figures. Among the dinner parties that will be given at this fashionable club next Saturday evening is that at which Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Patterson will entertain in honor of their guest, Mrs. C. F. Speth, of New York, and Miss Frances Ward, of Birmingham, Ala., the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Eugene McCarthy. Covers will be placed for Mrs. Speth, Miss Ward, Mr. and Mrs. McCarthy, Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Marshall, Mr. and Mrs. Goodloe Yancy, Mr. and Mrs. J. V. Pierson, Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Doakes, Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Simmons, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Neal, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilby, Mr. and Mrs. George Marchmont, Mr. and Mrs. Joe Camp, Dr. and Mrs. W. E. Barbour, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hodgson, Miss Marion Dean, Roy Booker and Mr. and Mrs. Patterson.

Among the innumerable luncheon parties scheduled at Brookhaven for next Sunday at which time a special Easter luncheon will be served is that at which Mr. and Mrs. Charles E. Cotterill, who leave at an early date for New York to reside, will be hosts. The guests will include a group of Mr. and Mrs. Cotterill's close friends numbering Mr. and Mrs. Robert Wilby, Mr. and Mrs. Percy Taylor, Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Langworthy, Mrs. R. H. Brett, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Broward, Mr. and Mrs. C. Robert Mitchell, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Hopkins and Dr. and Mrs. Guy Ayer.

Agnes Scott College Girls Honored In Decatur During Easter Holidays

Miss Polly Jones, who is a popular member of the sophomore class at Agnes Scott College, is entertaining a trio of college mates at the home of her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Jones on Clairmont drive, in Decatur, during the Easter holidays, the guests including Misses Bessie Meade Friend and Margaret Friend, of Petersburg, Va.; Miss Carolyn Russell, of Winder, Ga.; and Miss Margaret Glass, of Richmond, Va. Miss Jones will give a series of parties for her visitors, the first event being a tea at which Miss Jones was hostess yesterday at her home. The hostess and honor guests were assisted in receiving by the former's mother and her sister, Miss Molly Jones. Misses Mary Gillespie and Martha Logan assisted in entertaining. Mrs. Augustine Sams and Miss Mark Brooks presided at the tea table and Misses Sarah Lane Smith, LaFon Dancy and Lucile Cassels served punch. One hundred friends of the hostess called during the hours of 4 and 6 o'clock to meet the honor guests.

Last evening Miss Jones invited six young men from Emory College for a game of bridge with her visitors. Miss Sarah Lane Smith will give a luncheon today at her home on Greenwood place for Miss Jones and her guests. Miss Molly Jones will be hostess at a small bridge-supper this evening in compliment to her sister's guests and tomorrow evening a picnic has been arranged at Stone Mountain for this group of college girls. Miss Mary Brooks will compliment Miss Jones' visitors at a matinee party Saturday.

Mr., Mrs. Speiden To Be Honored This Evening

An interesting social event of this evening will be the dinner party at which Mr. and Mrs. Drury Powers will entertain at their home on Peachtree circle as a complimentary gesture to Mr. and Mrs. F. L. Speiden, who formerly resided in Louisville, Ky., and have recently come to Atlanta for residence. Mr. and Mrs. Powers have invited to meet their guests a small group of friends. Covers will be placed for Mr. and Mrs. Speiden, Mr. and Mrs. L. E. Chaloner, Colonel and Mrs. B. L. Bugg, Mr. and Mrs. Franklin P. Davis, Mr. and Mrs. Clem E. Powers, Mr. and Mrs. John Glenn, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Branch, and the hosts, Mr. and Mrs. Powers. Visitors Honored. Mrs. Eugene McCarthy was hostess at a bridge-ten yesterday afternoon at the East Lake Country Club in compliment to her sister, Mrs. Francis Ward, of Birmingham, Ala., and Mrs. Carl Speth, of New York city, the guest of her sister, Mrs. J. W. Patterson, on Brookhaven drive. Thirty guests were present.

Junior Music Club. Members of the junior division of DeKalb Junior Music Club met at the home of Lois Lennard, 720 Church street, Decatur, recently with Miss Jean Coddling presiding. Miss Beverly Cone was elected first vice president and program chairman. The members voted to adopt a course of study covering instruments of the orchestra, to be followed until next fall when they plan to begin the standard musicianship course. Three new members were received: Mary Keithly, Ellen Hamilton and Jacquelin Snelling. Ellen Hamilton was chosen as leader of the chorus, Mildred Harding for hymn accompanist, and Beverly Cone as accompanist for chorus and other vocal features.

The meeting was opened with the singing of "God of Our Fathers," followed by the Pledge of Allegiance. Emily Ann Wiley sang "Four Leaf Clover" and "The Lilac Tree," and Ellen Hamilton, "The Old Fuged Cross," with Mrs. R. L. Brooks, counselor of the club, accompanying. Mildred Harding played Sonata in F and Mary Keithly "The Minute" by Paderewski. Elizabeth Smith read a sketch of the life of Arthur Foote, American musician and composer, whose birthday falls in March. A musical contest was enjoyed, and Mary Keithly received a prize in recognition of the singing. Concentration and understanding of the subject covered.

Unfair Pain It is not fair that some women should suffer so each month. It isn't necessary! The periodic process is natural, but the painful part is not. Midol will prove this to every woman who will try it. These wonderful tablets are non-narcotic, but they banish every bit of pain they are directly on the organ affected and they take effect in five to seven minutes. Better yet, the woman who anticipates her time and takes a tiny tablet of Midol beforehand will experience no pain at all. Realize what Midol means. It is the product of specialists for this special purpose and it really does end all suffering and even the discomfort women once had to endure at such times. Always obtainable at any drug store in the convenient mint packet case for only fifty cents. Many have found Midol the quickest relief for headaches, neuralgia, neuritis, and other pain. (adv.)

Madame Sylva's Stage Presence And Radiant Smile Charm Audience

The fact that Madame Marguerite Sylva, mezzo soprano, was able to catch the fancy of her audience and to hold it for the duration of her somewhat heterogeneous program Wednesday afternoon in the Piedmont Driving Club, may be attributed to the sheer force of her stage personality, to the radiance of her smile, and to the fluent and sometimes highly amusing annotations with which she prefaced her numbers or brought them to smilingly effective conclusions.

For Madame Sylva—who might very well style herself a diseuse, if she wanted to be snobbish about it—is an entertainer who seems to derive genuine pleasure from her work, and that is the main reason, perhaps, why she succeeds so effectively in imparting pleasure. It could not be her voice for that is an instrument which, though admirably adapted, no doubt, for the immense stages, and romantic backgrounds, and trumpeting orchestras of musical comedy, proved just a little upsetting in the diminished and subdued atmosphere of the Driving Club.

It must have been her degage, exuberant, and somewhat racy manner, which placed her so immediately in rapport with her audience of Wednesday afternoon. For Madame Sylva, who came to Atlanta from Palm Beach, is said to be a great favorite at fashionable watering-places, and it really does require two, or preferably three cocktails before one can appreciate a program in which an aria from "Orfeo" and Masterline's "Et il révéla un jour," is apt to trail off any minute into "My Bird of Paradise" by Rudolph Friml.

A very fetching little group of "song-satires" in which a composer dips up some very spicy and, let us hope, some altogether unfounded tales of Marie Antoinette, Joseph, and La Gioconda, received a tremendous hand. A hand to which this reviewer (shamefacedly, you understand) contributed.

—B. R. CRISLER.

'April Fools' Harass Police With Fake Calls

Among the reports of the doings of the legions of impractical jokers who make their appearance annually on the first of April, came the announcement from police headquarters Wednesday that a large amount of time and energy was consumed by the force in running down bogus "murders," "robberies," "holdups," and sundry other similar hoaxes.

Patrolman M. O. Evans, who was on the night shift at the switchboard, claims that between 4 o'clock in the afternoon and midnight he received more than 100 such calls.

The police pointed out that the situation was rather annoying in view of the fact that each call had to be covered by one or more men, in spite of the fact that they knew when they started that the majority would prove false. "Imagine," remarked one harassed officer, "the state of mind you would have been in if you had called to report a bona fide robbery or holdup, and needed the attention of the police, and a blase officer had remarked listlessly over the phone, 'April fool!'"

The fire department fared considerably better this time, receiving only two false alarms out of eight calls.

WINSHIP'S WIDOW REPORTED 'BROKE' SAN FRANCISCO, April 1.—(AP) The widow of Lieutenant Commander Emory Winship, U. S. N., retired, has dismissed Ray McGunagle, the family chauffeur, over whom a cornerer's jury found Winship killed himself because of jealousy.

Edward L. Barry, attorney for the widow, Mrs. Dorothy Winship, said, financial stringency was one of the seasons.

"Mrs. Winship is virtually without funds," he said.

Barry said she would not try to attend her husband's funeral next Saturday at Macon, Ga.

LAST SERVICES HELD FOR DEWEY NAUD, 31

Services for Dewey Naud, 31, of 506 Sidney street, who died Monday at the United States hospital after an illness of about three weeks, were held at Spring Hill Wednesday afternoon, the Rev. H. L. Edmondson officiating. Interment was in the National cemetery at Marietta. Mr. Naud was a World War veteran and a member of the American Legion. He is survived by his widow, three sons, two sisters, his parents and three brothers.

FOR GREENS

Salads made with light, simple greens seem to find their ideal complement in a dressing like Vinaigrette Dressing. It gives them a touch of subtle flavor while allowing all their natural deliciousness to assert itself.

To make Vinaigrette Dressing: One teaspoon of salt, one teaspoon of pepper, a little paprika, eight tablespoons of Wesson Oil and two tablespoons of vinegar. Beat with a fork until thoroughly blended. Stir in a small sour pickle, chopped fine, and a teaspoon of chopped parsley.

FOR FRUITS

For fruit salads select a dressing made with nuts or cheese . . . or one that has a touch of sweetness. The next time you have a fruit salad try Nut Dressing:

To make Nut Dressing: To six tablespoons of Wesson Oil add two tablespoons of lemon juice, a teaspoon of salt, one-fourth teaspoon of sugar, one-fourth teaspoon paprika. Mix well and then add two tablespoons of chopped nuts.

FOR SEAFOOD

Seafood should be marinated in French Dressing for a few hours before they are made into the salad. It helps to bring back all the zesty tang that makes them so delicious.

*To marinate: mix six tablespoons Wesson Oil and two tablespoons of vinegar. Add a teaspoon of salt, one-eighth teaspoon of pepper. Pour this over seafood and set aside in the refrigerator for several hours. Serve with Lemonade.

Sugar and cream go well with peaches

But.. on sardines... never!

SOME things just seem to be made to go together. Some do not. We like lemon on fish, but on oatmeal we prefer something sweet. And so it is with salads and their dressings. There is a kind of dressing that goes best with each different kind of salad. So . . .

mix a dressing appropriate to the salad

For instance, on salads of simple greens, try Vinaigrette, Bachelor Club, or French Dressing. On fruits, fresh or canned, use Bar-le-Duc, Cheese or Nut Dressing. And when the salad is made of seafood, marinate* the ingredients in French Dressing before they are made into the salad.

SEND FOR Mary B. Murray's booklet about appropriate salad dressings. It tells you how to select the dressings that go best with different kinds of salads and contains many useful hints about the proper service of salads. Just send your name and address to The Wesson Oil and Snowdrift People, 210 Baronne Street, New Orleans, La.

SECRET PLACES

BY JOAN SUTHERLAND

INSTALLMENT X.

A strange elation filled him. If she took that jewel she would be his; if she did not, . . . Checking his thoughts sharply, he leaned a little across the table.

"Greta," he said, "that jewel is wonderful. Look in the mirror of your face."

She looked, started, looked again, and then met his hot eyes.

"Yes, it is wonderful," she said in a strange voice. "It's a marvelous jewel. D'Arbly, but— I cannot take it. It's far too valuable. Besides, I never take presents."

"This isn't a present," he said. "This is part of your life. You must take it. I've had it in my collection now for a year, but ever since I've known you I've longed to see it on your throat. Take it. Well, make up a tale to account for its presence. I'll find out something more about it; I'll find out its history. Wear it today, and I think you will always wear it."

She said no more for the moment. How enormously wealthy he must be to buy a jewel like this! For she was under no misapprehension as to its value. It was a treasure in which only a millionaire could possibly indulge. And he had bought it merely as a whim. He was annoying; at times he angered her; he was too insistent and selfish; yet he had power, and as such she could not do without him, though she had no intention of running any risk. It must be sufficient that he had her society, her willingness to let him take her about. It pleased him to give her this; very well, she would accept it, but there must be no conditions attached, and as these thoughts flashed through her mind she was too occupied to see a tall, dark man who wore a little round hat and moustache, standing at a table not far away. She would have known him for Paul Ravel, the famous artist, for he was a friend of her mother's, but she did not see him and Ravel took care she should not, for he had seen the jewel pass from D'Arbly's hand to hers, and he knew D'Arbly.

So Halkett's wife . . . well, she should show better taste in her choice . . . but it was none of his business. In this he was strangely wrong, for that short episode was to recur to him at a moment when, little though he guessed it, it would tip the scales between life and death.

Feodor Staire, after luncheon, chose to walk back to the embassy, and as he strode along the rue St. Honoré saw D'Arbly's big limousine draw up a little ahead of him. A second later he saw D'Arbly alight and hand out no other person than Greta. She did not look round, and Feodor turned sharply into the doorway of a shop. He knew where they were going—a private gambling club run by a Russian aristocrat. So Greta was gambling, and in D'Arbly's company. Worried and disturbed for his friend, Feodor turned down a side street, and walked rapidly on.

The evening was sultry as if a storm were gathering, an Greta, who was very susceptible to atmospheric conditions, felt nervous and headachy; and in addition, she had this time a very real anxiety to account for her mood.

Ronald was by no means a rich man, but he had sufficient to give his wife quite a charming little flat off the Place des Terres, with two excellent maids, one of whom waited upon Greta, and this evening as Greta came, in her maid, Ernestine, came out the bedroom to meet her.

"Oh, Madame," she said, excitedly; here are such lovely flowers come from Monsieur de la Roche, so lovely—flowers to you tonight, Madame—orchids for Madame's shoulder, so perfect! And for a moment Greta's languor left her.

"They are beautiful," she said. "They are my flowers, aren't they, Ernestine, mysterious, queer and beautiful?"

Ernestine nodded. She had a Frenchwoman's admiration for beauty coupled with brains, which Madame certainly had. She admired the utterly sane life, although she cordially detested her character. Still, Madame's character and Madame's little affairs were nothing to do with Ernestine.

After one more look at the flowers, Greta went on into her bedroom, locked her door, and without even removing her frock, dropped full length on the bed, staring at the opposite wall.

Why in the world had she been such a fool? What had possessed her to behave as she had done that afternoon? It was seldom she blamed herself for anything, but just now there was no possibility of blaming anyone else. D'Arbly's invitation to the gambling club had been most casual—she need not have accepted; but partly out of curiosity, partly out of boredom, partly out of a wild hope that she might make money, she had gone with him and spent an afternoon playing chemin de fer . . . chemin de fer . . . of all the stupid fools! Greta hit her first on the head, cursing herself for being an idiot. Chemin de fer! And she had lost 50,000 francs in three hours. Eighty thousand! Well, she could pay it. She could raise it, but it would cripple her hopelessly for the rest of the half year. Lady Alice had helped her too often to be applied to once more, and to ask Ronnie for any further allowance was impossible. He simply didn't have it. He would certainly have given it to her if he had, Greta knew that, and a certain rare feeling of shame overcame her for a moment, then passed. After all, what right had Ronald to keep her so short? Why could he not give her all the luxuries to which she had been accustomed?

It wasn't fair, when Toni would have everything. Toni was marrying a rich man with a big position. Toni's husband could take her everywhere, do everything for her; and Toni was not half so beautiful, not half so irresistible to men as she, Greta, was. What a fool she had been to marry Ronnie. She could have married anyone if she had waited. D'Arbly was mad about her. He had even spoken of her divorcing Ronnie and marrying him, until she had laughed him out of this absurd idea. Divorce Ronnie! Ridiculous! Why, she had no shadow of love for D'Arbly, although his fascination for her at times was undeniable. Besides, D'Arbly was not to be trusted. If she should ever contemplate facing the divorce courts it would be for far bigger game. Oh, but this was all nonsense. What she was thinking about was that wretched debt. Eighty thousand francs! What in the world would she do until the end of the half year? It would take all her balance at the bank to pay that, and she must pay it. She couldn't owe D'Arbly any money. That was an impossible thing. Perhaps that had better be done before Ronnie came back. It wouldn't do for Ronnie to find out.

Yawning and weary, she pulled herself up and went across to her little escritoire, took her check-book out of the center drawer and wrote a check payable to herself, for 10,000 francs, endorsed it, and addressed the letter to Henri D'Arbly. Then she rang the bell, and when Ernestine appeared, handed her the letter.

"Run out and post that yourself, Ernestine," she said.

Relieved that the check paying a small part of her debt had gone off, Greta sank back on the bed again. She couldn't go on like this. It was revolting. Her jealousy of Toni was mounting hourly. Tonight she would see her charming little flat off the Place des Terres, with two excellent maids, one of whom waited upon Greta, and this evening as Greta came, in her maid, Ernestine, came out the bedroom to meet her. Of course, he was a dear, but he was poor. He never would make a great deal of money. He wasn't that type.

Ronnie was a gentleman and a very charming one. Ronnie loved her. She wished he did not. Men were tiresome when they were in love. They wanted so much. She wanted admiration, luxury, amusement, rather than the deep, passionate things of life; they did not appeal, they demanded too much in return.

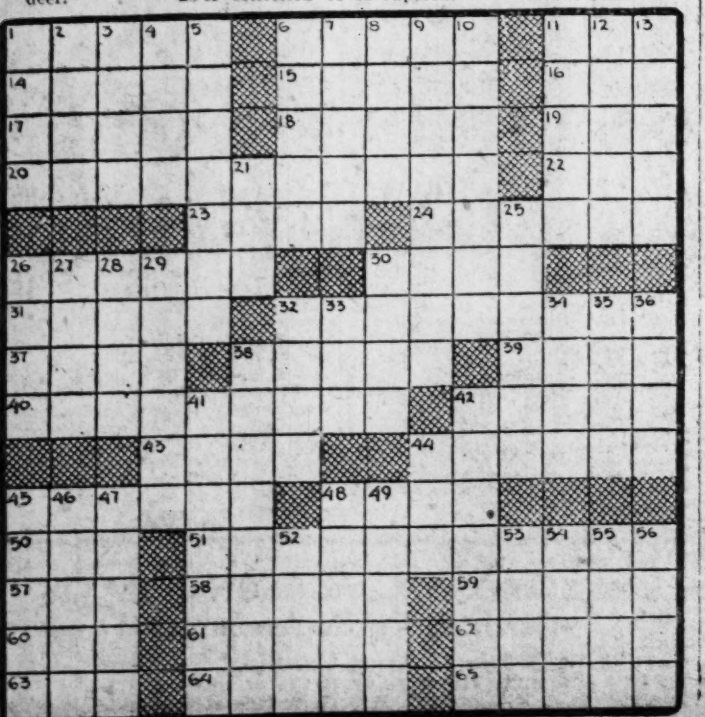

Continued Tomorrow.

TWO ADMIT ARSON THAT KILLED 322

Two Inmates of Ohio Penitentiary Tell Details of Tragic Arson Plot.

BY HARRY W. SHARPE.

COLUMBUS, Ohio, April 1.—(UP)—Remorse, fear—perhaps the specters of 322 dead men, once their prison mates—drove one prisoner to commit suicide, another to attempt to end his life, and two more to confess details of an escape plot which resulted in the Columbus prison holocaust nearly a year ago.

Four convicts, sullenly working on new cell blocks within the prison, were the leaders in the long planned scheme. The fire itself was to have been a minor incident; just enough of a blaze to bring confusion within the walls, and perhaps frighten with ladders. The leaders, so the convicts thought, could be seized and used as a means of escape.

Four times the plotters attempted to start a blaze, with gasoline stolen from the prison shops. Three times the candles they lighted in pans of oil spluttered out. The fourth attempt was successful, and the fire, for it resulted in horror.

Details of the plot were learned today by the United Press. It also became known that indictments are pending, and may be handed down before the end of the week.

The four men concerned in the scheme were Clinton Grate, Huston Gibson, Jimmy Malone, and James Raymond, all long-termers. On August 31, last year, Raymond hanged himself with an improvised rope, while in solitary confinement. Remorse and despair, and the fear that his victims might try to kill him, had led to his own request to be put in "the hole." A second convict, whose name prison authorities refused to reveal, attempted suicide shortly after Raymond's death, but was found by keepers and revived.

The story of the plot is now in the hands of Donald J. Hoskins, Franklin county prosecutor.

Tension had existed in the Columbus prison, for several weeks before the outbreak. Canon City's rebellion had flared up. There had been riots throughout the nation's penitentiaries. The men were grumbling, restless.

On their first attempt to fire the building a "bomb," with a candle as a fuse, was placed under the roof of the new structure. But it failed to work. A second and third attempt resulted in failure. Then Raymond, Grate and Gibson cut a quantity of shavings, soaked them in oil in a gray pan stolen from the kitchen, and lighted their candles—timing the business, they thought, so that the blaze would come while the convicts were at dinner. But they miscalculated the candle length. Their mates had been taken back to the cell houses before the "fuse" did its work.

The blaze spread rapidly, fed by kerosene, and within a few minutes the building was a seething furnace. And, fearing an escape plot, the guards did not dare release the inmates, of whom 322 were burned or smothered.

The conspirators, safe in their own cells, agreed to "keep their mouths shut" forever. But one by one they broke under the strain. Raymond, admitting his share in it, became fearful that he would pay for "squealing" with his life. Malone held out until two weeks ago. Finally, Grate and Gibson admitted the plot.

The grand jury is expected to act tomorrow or Friday.

BROTHER'S TRIAL NEARING CLOSE

CHICAGO, Ill., April 1.—(AP)—Leo Brothers' trial for the slaying of Alfred "Jake" Lingle, Tribune reporter, drew rapidly toward its close today as defense and prosecuting attorneys sought to impeach each other's witnesses.

Wayland Brooks, assistant state's attorney attacked the credibility of the defense witnesses and told the jury it is time for 12 men in Chicago to say that if men come here to hide and murder they forfeit the right to live. He reserved any further mention of penalty for his final plea, scheduled for tomorrow.

Harry Cantwell, St. Louis, the first defense attorney to address the jury, said "there was a motive back of the slaying, and that motive was emphasized that there was 'not one single witness to say that this defendant killed Lingle'."

$4,000,000 SEIT COCA-COLA LEADS BY DISBURSING DIVIDENDS TOTALING $2,000,000.

Led by the Coca-Cola Company, various Atlanta and Georgia institutions in this section Wednesday disbursed the first of their quarterly dividends by mailing out checks totaling approximately $4,000,000.

The Coca-Cola Company's first quarter dividend distribution carried forward a 25-cent dividend on common stock to 1,000,000 shareholders, making the total disbursement in dividends on that issue of $2,000,000, the largest of any of the local or eastern organizations. At a meeting of the board of directors in February it had been voted to increase the quarterly rate from $1.50 to $1.75, and it was at this conference that the extra dividend was decided upon.

Sending out checks totaling $834,000, the Georgia Power Company ranked second among the larger dividend-paying concerns in this section, the vouchers Wednesday going to holders of the company's $5 and $6 stock. The Bibb Manufacturing Company paid its regular quarterly dividend on common stock of that organization, amounting to $100,000.

The First National Bank of Atlanta, in disbursing its quarterly dividend on capital stock held by shareholders, announced a distribution of approximately $275,000; the Citizens' Southern National Bank $200,000; the Fulton National Bank $175,000; the Atlantic Coast Bank $150,000; the Georgia Trust Company $125,000; the Southern Bell Telephone Company $82,500; and the American Discount Company of Georgia $62,500.

Representative Ed. B. Dykes, of Dooley county, a former president of the state senate, was reported Wednesday as resting comfortably at Davis Fischer sanitarium following a sinus operation. Mr. Dykes entered the hospital last Sunday.

Members of the City Club will be guests of the Tavern Tea room at luncheon today. Colonel Charles J. Haden will address the club on the subject of "Financial Rehabilitation Needed More Than Constitutional Tampering."

Ladies' Missionary Society of the Mary Branch Methodist church will serve chicken dinners from 5 until 8:30 o'clock Friday night in Rubie's tea room, 1145 Euclid avenue.

Fulton County Medical Society will hold its bi-monthly meeting at 8 o'clock tonight. It was announced Wednesday by Dr. C. Davidson, president. Included on the program are Dr. Charles E. Dowman, Dr. Edgar F. Fincher, Jr., Dr. Lewis M. Galt, Dr. M. T. Johnson and Dr. Max Cutler, director of the cancer unit at the Michael Reese hospital, Chicago.

P. L. Morrow, of Atlanta, has been elected editor-in-chief of the Sibley Journal of Engineering, Cornell University publication, it was announced Wednesday.

Routine business was transacted by the board of county commissioners at its regular monthly session Wednesday night. The board approved a resolution for improvement of unpaved roads and streets were received and filed. Captain A. A. Clarke, head of the public works department, reported rapid progress in the curing of the unpaved thoroughfares. By resolution of the January meeting the county board has abandoned all paving projects for the year.

Mrs. Peggy French, under sentence of from eight to twelve years in prison for the murder last year of John S. Garmon, railroad dispatcher, will ask the supreme court for a rehearing of her case, James A. Branch, one of her attorneys, announced Wednesday. Mrs. French is at liberty on bond. Her conviction and sentence was upheld by the court of appeals Tuesday.

J. H. Kirby, former member of the legislature, under sentence of two years on the chain gang for robbery of a downtown finance company office, announced through his attorney, John S. Echols, that he would ask the supreme court for a rehearing of his case. Kirby, known as the "baby legislator," was representing Forsyth county in the legislature.

When sentenced he tendered his resignation.

BROAD ST. VIADUCT REPAIR POSSIBLE

Underpinning of the Broad street viaduct is entirely feasible and will lengthen the life of the present bridge several years, it was learned today from the report of the engineers of the N. C. & St. L. and Central of Georgia railroads.

Cost of the work and reconditioning of the bridge is estimated at about $20,000, but the mayor declared that he hopes to reduce the figure materially through co-operation of railroads and other interests.

"There is no need for us to consider reconstructing it, for the bridge is in good condition," said the mayor. "The only way this could be done would be to take it from the salaries of borough employees. We cannot do that."

Mayor Calls Meeting On Airport Building

Plans for erection of an administration building at Candler field will be discussed at a meeting called by Mayor James L. Key for 11 o'clock Monday morning. Mayor Key Wednesday sent invitations to Robert F. Maddox, Jesse Drapeau, Richard Curtis, Jr., Gregory C. Bowden, Frank Shaw and Richard Hall to attend the conference.

Mayor Key, it was said, will ask for suggestions as to some plan for erection of a concession stand at the field which later may be taken over by the borough. The Junior Chamber of Commerce has interest in the concession stand at the airport. It was said.

St. Luke's Choir To Give Cantata On Friday Night

The famous cantata by J. H. Maurer, "Olivet to Calvary," will be given tomorrow night, Good Friday, at 8 o'clock, at St. Luke's Episcopal church. Under the direction of Hugh Hodgson, organist and master of the chorists of the church, the presentation will add another to the impressive series of sacred music renditions which this church has given for many years at Christmas and Easter time.

"Olivet to Calvary" is an extremely impressive work. It is one of the finest compositions by the noted English composer, who has served nearly all his compositions to sacred music.

The rendition arranged for tomorrow night is exceptionally interesting and the choir of the church is well known for its rendition of the organ, creating a musical background.

The general soloists will include Mrs. Hugh Hodgson, Miss Margaret Nelson, soprano; Mrs. J. C. Brown, Mrs. L. S. Harper, contralto; C. E. Drummer, Mr. J. H. Johnson, tenor; G. D. Kimbro, W. A. Stokes, baritone.

The cantata opens with the famous chorus "Olivet to Calvary," and concludes with the chorale "The Procession of the Holy Spirit." The cantata is a masterpiece of musical composition and is well known for its rendition of the organ, creating a musical background.

Mr. Hodgson will be at the organ with Miss Mollie Horton as the soloist. The cantata is a masterpiece of musical composition and is well known for its rendition of the organ, creating a musical background.

The general public is cordially invited to hear the cantata. St. Luke's church is on Peachtree street just north of Forrest avenue.
